

$170,000 Drop Found in City's Property Value

Reduction in Old Homes Main Cause For Decrease

LAND DECLINES

Residential Improvements Reflect Brisk Build- ing Activity

Appleton's assessed valuation for 1939 is nearly $170,000 less than in 1938, reduction in old home values being principally responsible for the decrease.

The total assessed valuation for the city, according to figures released yesterday by George Peotter, assessor, is $47,617,350, compared with $47,786,400 for 1938.

Peotter reported that the reduction on old homes in the city in this year's assessment amounted to about $800,000.

The total value of real estate in the city increased nearly $100,000 this year, but at the same time personal property declined more than $250,000, mainly because of lower inventories.

Real estate in Appleton this year, valued at $42,642,775, was an increase of $36,250. Land declined in value during the year, falling from $11,748,850 to $11,744,400, but land improvements moved up from $30,711,975 to $30,899,575, a boost of over $187,000.

Figuring on the basis of a $22 tax rate, the decrease in the city's valuation would mean about $3,700 less in revenue to the city.

Home Values Up

Residential values gained during the year, climbing from $27,103,700 to $27,368,025, a gain of more than $260,000. Residential improvements reflected the brisk pace of house building by adding more than $288,000 to the 1938 figure, bringing it up to $20,589,775.

Residential land, however, declined $24,500 and stands at $6,976,250.

The mercantile total showed a gain of about $115,000, going from $7,975,775 to $8,090,000, both of the subdivisions—land and improvements—exceeding the 1938 figure.

Mercantile land went from $3,610,025 to $3,624,575, a jump of $14,550, and mercantile improvements from $5,161,950 to $5,268,625.

Lack of building and expansion among Appleton industries thrust the figure for manufacturing improvements below the 1938 level and was responsible for putting the manufacturing total $194,400 under last year's.

Manufacturing Down

This year's manufacturing total is $6,384,750, contrasted with $6,579,150 last year. The 1939 value of improvements is $5,241,175, more than $200,000 below the previous rating of $5,447,075. Manufacturing land registered a slight gain, going from $1,132,075 to $1,143,575.

Smaller inventories among industries brought the value of manufacturing stocks $265,000 under that of a year ago. The 1939 figure is $1,954,325, as against $2,219,600 for 1938.

Merchants stock showed a small gain, going from $2,070,775 to $2,074,650.

Total land and improvement values in the original six city wards are as follows: First, $7,930,975; Second, $10,041,925; Third, $6,951,850; Fourth, $5,517,300; Fifth, $6,687,775; Sixth, $5,514,150.

Other assessment totals on personal property items include: furniture and fixtures, $553,150; machinery, $318,500; cattle, $1,150; boats, $10,900; logs, $4,550; all other personal, $57,300.

Scaffold Falls; Two Masons Are Killed

Weldon, Ill.—(AP)—Kenneth Woodard, 20, of Delavan, Wis., and Clarence Perkins, 27, of Weldon, were killed yesterday in a 54-foot fall when a scaffold broke at an elevator where they were doing masonry work.

DIES AT 77
Charles M. Schwab, 77, former president of U. S. Steel Corporation and founder of the Bethlehem Steel company, died last night in his Park avenue apartment in New York.

Charles M. Schwab, Steel Leader, Dies In New York Home

Had been in Poor Health Since Death of Wife Last January

New York—(AP)—Death at 77 has ended the fabulous career of Charles M. Schwab, the $1-a-day stake-driver who became one of America's steel titans.

The white-haired onetime "strong man of steel," first president of the billion-dollar U. S. Steel Corporation and founder of the Bethlehem Steel company, died peacefully in his Park avenue apartment last night on coronary thrombosis.

At his bedside were his brother, Edward, and the latter's wife, Schwab, who returned Aug. 31 from Europe, had been in poor health since the death last January of his wife.

Funeral services, his brother said, probably will be held Thursday at St. Patrick's cathedral.

Schwab's other survivors were two sisters, Mrs. David Barry and Sister Cecilia, a nun in the Carmelite monastery, Loretto, Pa., which Schwab built for the order.

Rags to Riches
His climb to wealth, like the rise of the elder John D. Rockefeller and Henry Ford, became an industrial legend, built along the classic Horatio Alger theme of rags to riches.

The son of a wool factory mill hand, Schwab quit a $3-a-week job at 13, turned to a $2-a-week job at 14, and by 1900 was making $100,000 a year.

Queen Says Army Will Safeguard Neutrality

The Hague—(AP)—(Via Radio)—Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands today declared in her throne address that she had great confidence in the ability of her armed forces to insure the country's neutrality.

Her majesty, speaking at the hall of knights under what she described as "sombre circumstances," expressed hope that her country might be saved from "the horrors of war."

Wrong Guess Brings Man 5 Days in Jail

Detroit—(AP)—Haled into traffic court for failure to answer a reckless driving charge, Isaac Braker explained he had been caring for his newborn baby.

"How much did the baby weigh?" smiled the judge.

"About the same as any newborn baby—18 pounds," Braker guessed.

Braker now has five days in county jail to study up on the weight of babies.

Smokers Rush to Buy Cigarets As Governor Signs Measure to Make It Effective at Midnight

Madison—(AP)—Governor Heil signed the state cigarette tax bill today and ordered immediate publication to make it effective at midnight Tuesday.

While smokers all over the state continued to lay in stocks before the deadline, the state beverage tax division made final plans to start collections from wholesalers.

The tax amounts to 2 cents on a package of 20 cigarettes and 1 cent for each 50 cigarette papers.

The state bureau of purchases has ordered 80,000,000 stamps for sale to jobbers. The stamps, bearing the state seal, will be distributed in four denominations, principal of which is a red, 2-cent stamp. The other denominations are 5 cent, 1 cent and 1/2 cent stamps and in addition there will be a stamp simply marked "tax paid."

No cigarettes in the hands of consumers before the law becomes effective will be taxable unless resold.

Wholesalers and manufacturers operating within the state will have to obtain permits from the state treasurer at a fee of $50 each.

Each wholesaler and retailer must furnish the state with a notation of midnight. Since sale of stamps probably will not start for several days they will have to pay the tax on unstamped, inventoried merchandise.

Chief Inspector John Roach announced 46 men had been sent into the field to assist dealers in enforcement of the act.

He advised all dealers to declare their merchandise and not attempt to conceal any of it, asserting the state intends to make a thorough check through manufacturers to prevent tax evasion.

Roosevelt Will Talk Thursday On Neutrality

Plans to Deliver Address At Joint Session of House and Senate

MAKES NEW APPEAL

Again Seeks Pledge Against Warplane At- tacks on Civilians

Washington—(AP)—President Roosevelt has made tentative arrangements to address a joint session of the senate and house on neutrality early Thursday afternoon.

Stephen T. Early, a presidential secretary, said Mr. Roosevelt would begin drafting his message today. It is expected to deal almost exclusively with revision of the neutrality law.

Early said the message would be very brief. Present plans call for Mr. Roosevelt to deliver it about 2 o'clock p. m. eastern standard time (1 p. m. C. S. T.).

Asked whether the brevity was due to the fact that the whole neutrality subject had been pretty well gone over heretofore, the secretary asserted that congress already had considerable information.

Arrangements for the president to deliver the message in person on the opening day of the special session were completed after Early had been in communication with Vice President Garner, Speaker Bankhead and Senate Majority Leader Barkley. He was unable to reach House Majority Leader Rayburn, who was enroute to the capital.

Early said that the hour for the speech was, of course, subject to change after legislative leaders reached Washington and surveyed the situation.

Plea to Belligerents

In response to a Polish appeal, President Roosevelt has called on European belligerents to renew their pledge against bombing civilians from the air.

He expressed last night his "earnest hope" that warring nations "will take measures to assure themselves that their respective air forces are showing that regard for the lives of noncombatants which their replies to my appeal of Sept. 1 have led the world to expect."

Mr. Roosevelt's statement replied to a message from President Moscicki of Poland saying that "for some days past German aircraft have deliberately and methodically been bombing Polish towns and villages which contain no conceivable military objectives."

Mr. Roosevelt said he was "deeply shocked" by this statement as well as by other reports he had received, including some from American officials in Poland.

"It had been my hope," he said, "following the receipt from the Polish government of a letter dated Sept. 17, 1939, that the German government would take steps to prevent further such attacks."

Drunken Driver Gets Jail Term

34 Drunken Drivers Since Jan. 1st

Dan Peters, Kaukauna, is sentenced on two counts.

Dan Peters, Kaukauna, pleaded guilty of drunken driving and of operating an automobile without a driving license when he was arraigned before Judge Thomas H. Ryan in municipal court Monday afternoon.

Peters was fined $50 and costs with an alternative of 60 days at the county detention camp on the drunken driving charge and $10 and costs with an alternative of 15 days in jail on the license charge.

Reorganization Bill

The public service commission reorganization bill cleared another legislative hurdle today when the assembly refused, 48 to 46, to reconsider the vote which it had been ordered to third reading.

The reconsideration motion was made by Assemblyman Catlin (R) Appleton. To hasten action on final passage, the bill was made a special order of business for Thursday when the passage vote will be taken.

It would abolish the present three-member commission and substitute a director, George C. Mathews, a member of the federal exchange commission, is slated for the appointment.

Assemblyman Carlson (P) Bayfield, sought to delay a final vote by moving that the bill be placed on the table. The motion was defeated 48 to 42.

Marion Talley Wins Fight for Custody Of 4-Year-Old Girl

New York—(AP)—Marion Talley has won her court fight to gain custody of her 4-year-old daughter, Susan.

The 32-year-old former Kansas opera singer was awarded the child three months each year by Judge Alfred Frankenthaler yesterday in upholding a court referee's report.

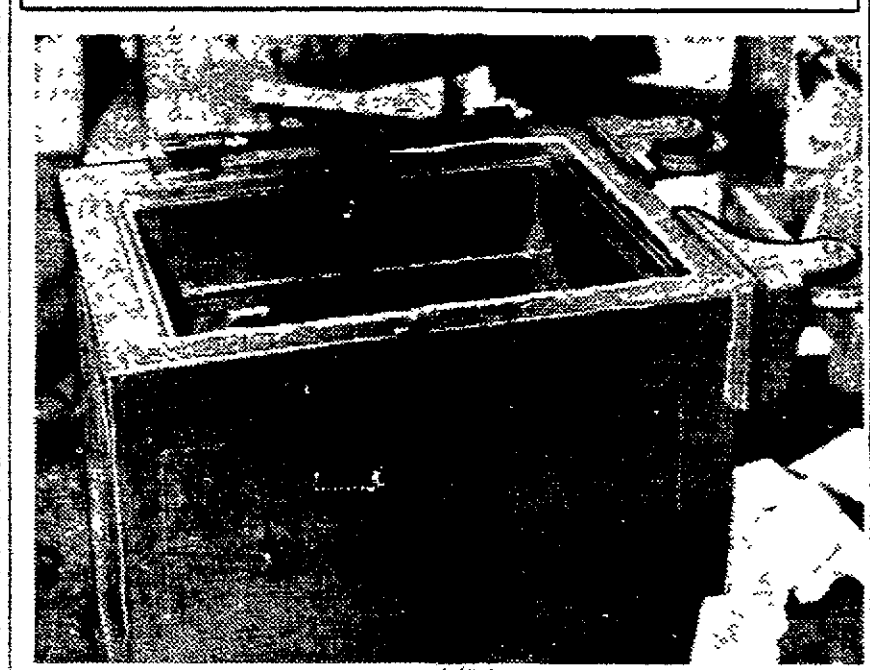

The father, Adolf G. Eckstrom, Miss Talley's former voice teacher, was granted custody for the other three months.

Miss Talley charged Eckstrom had demanded $150,000 to settle their matrimonial difficulties and give her possession of the child.

Although Eckstrom denied this, Judge Frankenthaler in his decision "seriously questioned" whether the father's attitude "is entirely free from ulterior motives."

HIGH SCHOOL SAFE IS ROBBED

Here is the safe which was blown open with nitro-glycerine by cracksmen last night at the Appleton senior high school. The burglars escaped with an estimated $400 in cash. Damages to the building and vault probably will exceed that figure, school authorities said. The men entered the building by forcing an outside door.

Fishing License Bill Is Sent to Chief Executive

Assembly Consents in Measure for 50-Cent Fee On Male Cane Pole Users

Madison—(AP)—The assembly concurred in a senate bill today, 48 to 27, levying a 50-cent fishing license fee on male cane pole users over 18 years. It now goes to the governor.

The bill would continue the $1 fee on rod and reel fishermen, but exempt those under 18, women, and farmers fishing on their own land from any kind of levy.

It was introduced by Senator Ingram (P), Eau Claire.

The house killed another of Ingram's measures which would levy a license fee of $1 to $100 on minor and bait dealers depending upon the volume of sales. The vote was 41 to 37.

By a vote of 44 to 37, the assembly today killed a senate bill reducing passenger auto license fees by one-half. It was introduced by Senator Zimny (D), Milwaukee.

The house tabled a measure by Schlabe (R), LaCrosse, empowering county clerks to issue license plates 41 to 51.

A new law sets up the motor vehicle division which will handle the plates.

Green Bay Nurse Asks $25,000 in Balm Suit

Milwaukee—(AP)—Miss Marguerite Waldo, a Green Bay nurse, today filed suit in circuit court asking damages of $25,000 from Eugene Wald, Milwaukee optician, in a breach of promise action.

The complainant charged Wald told her last March he could not marry her after "keeping company" with her from 1934 to 1939.

Miss Waldo's action was the second she had filed against the Milwaukee man. The first, filed last spring, was withdrawn.

Ask Court Ruling On Horlick Money

Racine—(AP)—The Horlick brothers, A. J. and William J., have asked a circuit court ruling on disposition of the share of their sister, the late Maybelle Horlick Sidley, in accrued income of a $4,000,000 trust fund.

Their father, the late William Horlick, Sr., founder of the malted milk fortune, created the fund for the three children.

In a joint suit, the brothers have asked the court to specify whether an accrued $78,000 payable but not paid to Mrs. Sidley before her death, should go directly to her only son, William Horlick Sidley, or be paid into her residual estate. If the sum were paid into the estate, Mrs. Sidley would receive one-third under terms of his mother's will.

The Horlick brothers also ask that they replace the former trustee board of three, of which Mrs. Sidley was the third, as trustees of the fund.

A hearing in the suit, originally set for next Friday, has been postponed to Oct. 24.

Allies Bolstering Strength on Western Front in Expectation Of Strong Attack by Germans

Paris—(AP)—France and Britain strengthened their war line on the western front today in anticipation of a major battle as soon as German reinforcements are rushed back from Poland.

Entry of red armies from Russia into war-battered Poland was viewed here as speeding the task of German divisions in the east and making more men and equipment available for defense of the west.

French reports said the nation's colonial troops—Senegalese, Algerians, Tunisians, Madagascans, Tonkinese, Annamese and Cambodians—were mobilized fully and ready to bolster the French attack.

In the regular morning communique, the French general staff announced repulse of a localized German attack, launched during the night "in the region east of the Saar river."

The communique did not specify where the fighting took place, but it was believed to be in the shell-pounded region south of Saarbrücken, where French and German forces have fought numerous minor engagements.

British troops were said to have moved into position in the area of France's magnet line through tunnels to the vast defense works.

Reinforcements, the French said, were moving up steadily from the rear through World war battle sites and the crumbling concrete works of German's old Hindenburg line.

Meanwhile, belief was expressed that Berlin would air a diplomatic campaign at such neutral countries as Belgium, the Netherlands, Rumania and the Balkan nations.

Three Armies Still Resist Nazis but Hopes Dwindle

SEPARATE UNITS

Reported to be Operating Without General Staff Orders

Cernauti, Rumania—(AP)—Polish resistance to Germany's overwhelming armed might was reported today to have dwindled to three widely-spread and virtually-surrounded armies.

Dispatches indicated the Poles still were holding out at Warsaw, along the San river west of Lwow and in the sector between Bialystok and Pinsk, but the plight of the defenders was said to be desperate.

(Lwow, capital of the Polish Ukraine, is approximately 210 miles southeast of Warsaw and about the same distance south of Pinsk. Bialystok is about 110 miles northwest of Warsaw.)

The three Polish armies were said to be operating as individual units, without direction from the Polish general staff, which yesterday followed government leaders across the Rumanian border.

The desperately fighting Poles also were reported practically without aerial assistance. Most of the Polish air force already has been destroyed, or interned in Rumania.

May Go to Paris

Polish government leaders, who halted here in their flight before the advancing German forces, were reported today on their way by separate routes to Bucharest, from where, it was said, they might go to Paris.

President Ignace Moscicki departed last night for Craiova, near the Bulgarian frontier, where he was given permission to reside with Foreign Minister Jozef Beck. Beck left here by motor and Marshal Edward Smigly-Dydz departed by way of Bialystok in the Carpathian mountains.

A bitter argument between Beck and Smigly-Dydz, on an undisclosed subject occurred at the Cernauti station as they bade farewell to Moscicki. The army leader, ignoring Beck's aides, stalked off to his automobile.

Assails Peace of Versailles; Russia and Reich to 'Settle Polish Situation'

Danzig—(AP)—(By Radio)—Adolf Hitler emphasized today that "we have no war intention against either England or France."

"Russia and Germany will settle this (Polish) situation and this will result in the removal of the tension," he declared.

However, he expressed a determination to continue the war as long as he was forced, saying the word "surrender" would not be uttered.

"Nor at the end of the sixth or the seventh year," he shouted. "The generation of today is not the generation of Bethmann-Hollweg."

Earlier he had said the Germany of today "no longer is a country to which ultimatums can be dictated."

"The World war which had losers only, not winners—this World war at the end left a sad remembrance behind," he declared.

Hitler began by addressing Albert Forster, Nazi district leader, who had introduced him to the noisily-demonstrating audience.

"My gauleiter (district leader), my dear fellow citizens: 'Not only we but the entire German people experience this historic moment.'"

Making his first public speech since Sept. 1, when the German invasion of Poland started, Hitler started speaking at 5:16 p. m. (10:16 a. m. C. S. T.) in the medieval Artushof, guildhall dating from days of the Hanseatic league.

Throats Cheer

He drove there through cheering crowds in an auto moving slowly over a literal carpet of flowers.

The entire radio systems of Germany, Hungary, Slovakia and the Scandinavian nations carried his speech, which also was relayed to the United States.

The fate of Danzig, Hitler said, was the fate of all Germany. The World war, he continued, "made no sense."

The peace imposed on the Germans at Versailles, Hitler said, had worked great oppression, but the time had come for them to live again, he added.

His voice, which had been under considerable restraint when he started, rose to high emotional intensity at times.

If the world outside Germany thinks it should not believe in the word of German statesmen, Hitler continued, it should also be critical of the statesmen of the countries which forced the peace terms upon the Germans.

The peace offers made at the time of Versailles spelled "stupidity," Hitler said, and cast doubt upon the sanity of the men who made them. States were cut up and destroyed by those peace terms, der fuhrer went on.

Sought "Solution"

All the Polish territory taken away from Germany at the end of the World war held the best in German labor, and culture, he said.

"Only those who are culturally created have the right to exist," he said. He said he had attempted in the past to find "a reasonable solution to the problem."

He said he tried to establish borders in the west and in the south and had tried to make an agreement with Pilsudski which had as its purpose amicable relations between the Poles and the Germans.

"As long as Pilsudski lived this was possible," he said.

At this point Hitler said that what had depressed him and caused him suffering was that nazis had had to suffer at the hands of an inferior state, while "Germany was a superior state."

Expected Acceptance
Poland had received proposals from Hitler, which he said, he thought he should never have made.

Britain, France To Confer With Polish Leaders

London Criticizes Russia; Hundreds Missing in Loss of Warcraft

Paris—(AP)—The French government tonight made known its determination to prosecute the European war in spite of Soviet Russia's invasion of Poland.

A semi-official statement on the eve of a cabinet meeting tomorrow said that France would continue to carry out her war policy in cooperation with Britain.

"The occupation of part of Poland by the Russian army can not affect in any way the position taken by the two great democracies," the statement said.

London—(AP)—Informed observers said today that Great Britain and France, still firm in their pledges to Poland, would consult Polish leaders on the military situation created by the Soviet Russian invasion of Poland pending disclosure of its "full implication."

The British ministry of information, in a statement in which it was understood France would concur formally today, declared the Soviet action—avowedly to "protect" Ukrainians and while Russians in Poland—"cannot, in view of its majesty's government, be justified by the arguments put forward by the Soviet government."

There was, however, no intimation from any informed source that the ministry's communique could be interpreted as foreshadowing a declaration of war on Russia.

Will Prosecute War
The full implication of these events is not yet apparent, said the communique, "but his majesty's government take the opportunity of stating that nothing that has occurred can make any difference to the determination of his majesty's government, with the full support of the country, to fulfill their obligations to Poland, and to prosecute the war with all energy until their objects have been achieved."

Baby Is Found Near Death in Tub After Her Mother Succumbs

Wausau—(AP)—A one-year-old baby, found near death last night from starvation and exposure in a tub of water in which she was being bathed shortly before her mother died Friday night or Saturday, was reported on the road to recovery today.

The mother, Mrs. Alexander Wentzka, 21, was found dead in an outbuilding of the Wentzka farm by her mother-in-law, Mrs. Mamie Wentzka, and two of Alexander's brothers, John and Bernard, who drove there from their home at Danby for a visit.

The husband, Alexander, had left the farm early last week to seek employment in Milwaukee and a hired man quit last Thursday, leaving the mother and baby alone.

The infant, Genevieve, was found sitting in about three inches of water in the tub in the kitchen. She was blue from exposure, but physicians at Memorial hospital, where she was taken, said aside from a cold she was in good condition.

Dr. H. H. Fletcher, Marathon county coroner, said Mrs. Wentzka had been dead 60 to 72 hours. He scheduled an autopsy to determine the cause of death.

Message Reveals Fate Of Lost Ocean Flier

Stockholm—(AP)—A pencilled message in a bottle washed up on the Norwegian coast provided a sequel today to the disappearance of Charles Backman, 27-year-old Swedish flier lost on an attempted trans-Atlantic solo flight last May.

A customs officer at the Swedish-Norwegian border reported finding the message, which he said bore Backman's name and told of a crash in mid-ocean. The writer said he would be lost, if no help came within three days.

(Backman, who had lived for a time in St. Louis and Chicago, took off for Sweden from St. John's, Newfoundland, last May 16 and was unreported thereafter. He flew a 30-horsepower, single-motored monoplane with no radio.

Message Reveals Fate Of Lost Ocean Flier

Stockholm—(AP)—A pencilled message in a bottle washed up on the Norwegian coast provided a sequel today to the disappearance of Charles Backman, 27-year-old Swedish flier lost on an attempted trans-Atlantic solo flight last May.

A customs officer at the Swedish-Norwegian border reported finding the message, which he said bore Backman's name and told of a crash in mid-ocean. The writer said he would be lost, if no help came within three days.

(Backman, who had lived for a time in St. Louis and Chicago, took off for Sweden from St. John's, Newfoundland, last May 16 and was unreported thereafter. He flew a 30-horsepower, single-motored monoplane with no radio.

Order Referendum On Tenure Law For Next Spring

Expected to Sound Out Sentiment in Larger School Systems

Madison—(P)—Legislative action was completed by the assembly yesterday on a joint resolution ordering a referendum next April to determine whether voters wish to repeal the teacher tenure law.

The measure, which had been returned to the house for concurrence in a corrective senate amendment, does not require signature by Governor Heil.

The present legislature eliminated some objection to the tenure statute by exempting one room schools from the 1937 law. The referendum proposal by Assemblyman Heden (R) of Oshkosh was designed to sound out sentiment in larger school systems.

Governor Heil received from the assembly a finance committee bill canceling salary increases of classified state employees which became effective July 1 and requiring emergency board approval of future raises. Under the measure, Sept. 1 was set as the cancellation date.

If the governor signs the bill into law, the emergency board will be authorized beginning with the next fiscal year, July 1, to approve or cancel all raises. Previously some salaries were increased automatically and others could be raised by department heads, board approval being required only in the course of a fiscal year.

Rejecting two reconsideration motions, the house sent to the governor a bill repealing a 1937 appropriation of $7,500 for printing a state guide, and sent to the senate a bill reorganizing the emergency board and creating a service and supply board under direct supervision of the chief executive.

Governor Heil was asked to take steps to prevent food profiteering under adoption of a resolution by Senator Bernhard Gettelman (R) of Milwaukee. Federal officials were urged to take similar action in a resolution by Assemblymen Jack Harvey of Racine and Ben Rubin of Milwaukee, both Progressives.

The assembly engrossed a bill by Leo T. Niemuth (R) of Oshkosh providing for tax exemption on old age pensioners' homesteads valued up to $5,000.

Charles M. Schwab, Steel Leader, Dies In New York Home

job as a grocery clerk to take a laborer's job driving trucks in a steel plant at Braddock, Pa., owned by Carnegie Brothers and Company.

In the evening, the 18-year-old boy studied the steel business and gave piano lessons to steelworkers' children at 50 cents an hour. In three years he was manager of the plant at $250 a month. At 21, he married Emma Euranina Dinkley, daughter of a first steel worker, a chemist in the United States.

Schwab soon became known as "troubleshooter" for Andrew Carnegie, the steelmaster, who liked the tall, husky young executive and boosted him rapidly. He was only 35 in 1897 when he became president of the Carnegie Steel company and in three years raised its profits from $100,000 to $4,000,000.

The late J. Pierpont Morgan made him president of the newly formed U. S. Steel Corporation in 1901, but two years later Schwab tore up a million-dollar-a-year contract because he said he was tired of having "too many bosses."

Moved by his self-admitted mania to be the manpinner of an enterprise, he embarked upon, Schwab put $15,000,000 of his own money and his limited energy into the founding of Bethlehem Steel.

Supreme Court to Hear Hatten-Monsted Appeal

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison—(P)—Arguments in the Hatten-Monsted appeal will be heard by the state supreme court Tuesday morning, Oct. 10, it was announced today.

The appeal was taken by attorneys for the state, the late millionaire, William H. Hatten of Waupaca county, after a decision by County Judge A. M. Scheller allowing a $25,000 claim against the estate.

Other appeals on claims against the estate totalling more than $100,000 were heard by the high court last week.

'Starvation' for State Agencies Unless More Money Is Provided

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison—(P)—A pessimistic picture of the state government's financial prospects was drawn today by Assemblyman P. Bradley McIntyre, chairman of the assembly finance committee who has, with the assistance of Governor Heil's office, during the last three months drafted four separate revenue plans only to see them turned down by the legislature.

Hitler Expected To Offer Peace To London, Paris

Moscow, Rome or Neutral States May Make Overture for Him

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE
New York—(P)—Belief is general in European capitals, and Washington as well, that Herr Hitler will offer the Anglo-French allies peace in the immediate future—as soon as the dogged remnants of the Polish army have given up their last ditch.

Such a proposal might be made through Moscow, through Signor Mussolini or through some neutral state or group of states.

Hitler's strategy has been directed to this end since the beginning of the war, at least up to the Russian occupation of eastern Poland. We have had the remarkable circumstance of his declining to attack on the western front excepting where forced to it, claiming that his quarrel was with Poland and not the allies.

This policy of appeasement has been directed especially toward France, in an apparent effort to split the Anglo-French combine. Hitler has been bitter toward England, claiming that she egged Poland on to fight.

Allies Are Pledged
However, if the spoken and written word still retains any meaning at all, then a German peace proposal now will fall on deaf ears. The allies are pledged to stick with Poland, dismembered or otherwise.

Britain's peace-minded but spirited Premier Chamberlain has declared that England wouldn't make terms while German troops remained on Polish soil. More than all that, he has announced that his country won't quit until "Hitlerism has been smashed."

The British government's intention to fight on for Poland was officially reaffirmed last night in a statement which condemned the Russian occupation.

The trend on this very terrible conflict will depend in large degree on Russia's future attitude.

"Didn't Say When"
Soviet Premier Molotov has announced that Russia will remain neutral. Like the Scotsman who was being sued for breach of promise, however, the premier wasn't as specific as the allies perhaps would have liked.

Sandy was asked by the judge if he had promised to marry the girl, to which the defendant replied: "Yes, your honor, but I didn't say when."

The soviet announcement doesn't specify the duration of neutrality, though it might be expected to be indefinite unless changed conditions impelled Russia to get into the melee.

In any event, Premier Molotov's statement is a logical answer to the widespread speculation as to whether the soviet's intervention in Poland means participation in the European war. That is, whether Russia intends to join Germany against the allies.

Third Accident Victim Succumbs to Injuries

Rockford, Ill.—(P)—A father and two of his sons were dead today, victims of Winnebago county's worst traffic accident of the year.

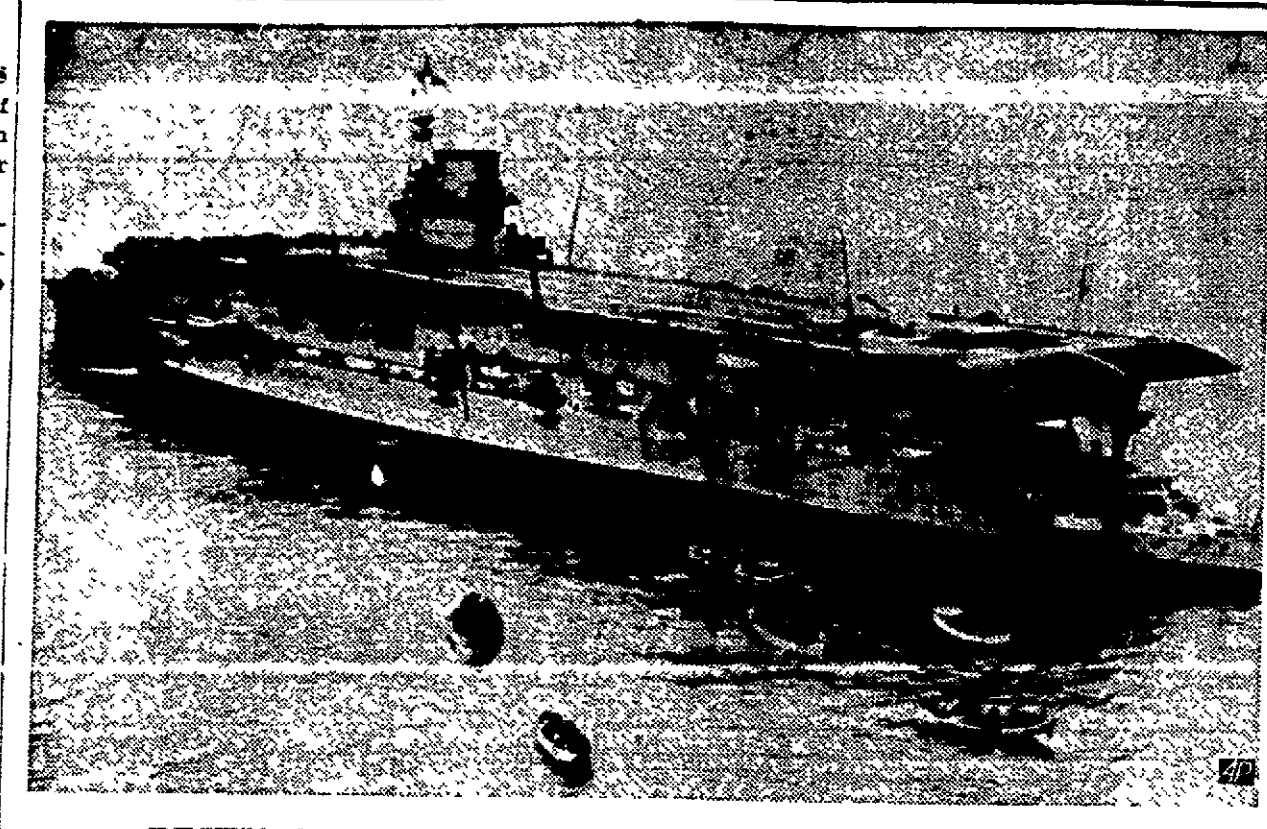

Clement O. Spragins, 55, and one son, Dale, 16, were killed when their automobile and a truck collided and another son, Lloyd, 22, died in a hospital last night. A third son, Joseph, 20, was injured seriously. All were of Rockford.

Last summer a fourth son, Carroll, 17, drowned in a lake here. The elder Spragins and his three boys were driving toward Rockford when their car and a truck driven by Gordon Callison, 21, of Janesville, Wis., collided. Callison, who was detained pending an arrest, and Joseph Kohlenberg of Beloit, Wis., the truck owner, escaped injury.

sponsored by Assemblyman Frank N. Graess of Sturgeon Bay, designed to raise $33,000,000 by heavy new exactions on income taxpayers and business, which administration spokesmen maintain has no chance of passage, and a 2 per cent sales tax freshly introduced by Assemblyman Gruszka of Mosinee.

If the legislature adjourns without doing something to fill the $15,000,000 gap which still remains between revenues and appropriations, McIntyre warned, state departments, institutions and expenditures in general will be drastically affected.

Even with the enactment of a new $10,000,000 revenue program, he said, the emergency board will be forced to lop off $3,000,000 more from some of the larger departmental budgets which have already been severely cut. They include the University of Wisconsin, where economies are being shouldered by the students this fall, and the state board of control institutions.

BRITISH AIRCRAFT CARRIER SUNK BY SUBMARINE
The British Admiralty announced in London the loss of the aircraft carrier Courageous (above) by enemy submarine action—the first warship casualty of the war reported by Britain. An undetermined number of seamen and fliers aboard the 22,500-ton warship were saved.

May Divert Road Funds if State Becomes Pinched

Legislature Disapproves But Money Can Be Transferred Indirectly

(Post-Crescent Madison Bureau)
Madison—After almost six months of argument, the Wisconsin state legislature has decided that the state government will not directly divert highway department funds for other uses during the next two years.

However, Republican legislative and administration spokesmen concede that there is little chance that all of the anticipated $65,000,000 revenue from motor vehicle license fees and gasoline taxes during the biennial period will be used for highway purposes. There is an unspoken agreement that the financial pinch of the legislature will compel unofficial diversion of highway receipts, in the same manner that previous administrative diversions did so without specific legislative sanction.

The degree of diversion possible during the two years of the Heil term is a subject of disagreement among observers, however. Best guess is that there will be a difference between statutory highway allocations and total receipts of about $8,000,000 for the two years. To that extent diversion from the highway department to replenish the state general fund is technically possible.

Will Top $25,000,000
If diversion is attempted by the present administration, the obligations of the state government to the highway department will exceed the present figure of approximately $25,000,000. The figure represents the amount of diversion effected by Heil's predecessors.

Early in the present administration Governor Heil and his associates referred to that "debt" frequently, inferred that it was contractual obligation of the state government, and that it must at some future time be repaid. In later months, however, there has been an absence of reference to the "debt," and on one occasion, the executive office even presented a budget balancing plan which contemplated the use of a substantial chunk of highway revenues.

The defeat of the diversion scheme represents a victory for a powerful aggregation of interests interested in maintaining, and increasing if possible, public support for a highway program. Municipalities, materials manufacturers, auto dealers and garages, petroleum industries, and others lobbied strenuously against the use of highway taxes for general governmental purposes. Proponents argued with equal vehemence, but with fewer legislative votes that use of highway funds in a temporary financial emergency was preferable to new taxes.

Stassen Outlines Farm Conference

6 Midwest Governors Accept Invitation to Discuss Problems

St. Paul, Minn.—(P)—With acceptance from six of the 12 midwestern governors invited, Governor Harold E. Stassen today announced details of a farm problems conference here Friday and Saturday.

War's effect on agriculture will be emphasized.

Governor Stassen stressed that he did not want the conference to be construed as a political meeting. He said "the conference does not contemplate the setting forth by resolution of an agricultural program, but is rather analytical and informative in its foundation. No resolutions will be passed unless by unanimous vote of all conferees."

Acceptances came from Governors Harlan J. Bushfield, South Dakota; Julius P. Heil, Wisconsin; George A. Wilson, Iowa and Faymer H. Ratner, Kansas, all Republicans; and Democrats John Moses, North Dakota, and Henry Horner, Illinois, who said he would send Senator Scott W. Lucas as his representative.

Three economists will picture the current position of the midwestern farmer with a war-spotted world, the first morning.

Student Journalists Hear Instructor Talk On Journey to Alaska

Miss Ethel Carter, Appleton High school mathematics instructor, described her vacation trip to Alaska this summer for members of the Edward Weismiller chapter of Quill and Scroll at the first regular meeting of the group Monday afternoon. Betty Meldrum presided as temporary chairman.

As Miss Carter described her trip, she passed colored pictures for her audience to examine. One of the features of Alaska which she especially commented upon was the rapid growth of plants. "The pansies were six inches in diameter," she declared.

Nominations for membership in Quill and Scroll will be made this week by editors and faculty advisers of the business and editorial staffs of the Talisman, weekly newspaper, and the Clarion, yearbook. When the roll is completed, officers for the year will be elected.

Britain, France To Confer With Polish Leaders

into Poland was expected in the house of commons tomorrow after another of Prime Minister Chamberlain's reports on the war with Germany.

Comparable to the shock caused by news of Russia's Sunday invasion was yesterday's official disclosure that the Courageous, the oldest but one of the largest of Britain's seven aircraft carriers, had been torpedoed and sunk.

The British admiralty today followed up a sparsely-worded communique on the loss of the 23-year-old Courageous with a list of 681 survivors out of the ship's company of 1,360.

Survivors Land
About 400 of the survivors were landed in England by a rescuing destroyer last night. They brought to shore vivid stories of the episode—the first sinking of a British warship in the present war.

The survivors estimated about 800 were saved in all. Some of the rescuers were delayed in landing until afternoon.

One of the rescued men said that within five minutes after the ship was attacked he "saw pieces of the submarine blown sky high by the destroyers."

"The first torpedo penetrated the Courageous on the port side through the stokers deck and exploded violently," he declared. "A second torpedo passed beneath us. The Courageous sank in 35 minutes. All of us either jumped into the sea from the decks, or slipped down the side of the heavily-listing ship into the water."

Saved By Destroyers
"Some who were strong swimmers kept afloat without aid, while others clung to rafts, or pieces of wood. It was not very rough, and we were able to get some boats away."

"The destroyers raced around throwing lifeboats overboard. I was in the water over two hours." Seamen who had to leap into the water, sank, and cheered as they swam about waiting to be picked up by destroyers, the survivors said.

Besides those landed by the destroyer, other members of the Courageous crew were reported taken aboard other vessels, including the American freighter Collingsworth.

The admiralty's communique did not give the position of the Courageous when she was sunk. It was daylight at the time of the attack.

Soviet Warships Hunting Rest of Polish U-Boats

Official News Agency Does Not Indicate Nature of Action

Moscow—(P)—Soviet Russia's warships have embarked on "measures" against the remnants of Poland's submarine fleet, believed hiding in Baltic ports, while the red army rolls across eastern Poland.

The precise nature of the action was not disclosed in an announcement by Tass, the official news agency. It said merely the soviet Baltic fleet is "taking measures."

As reported from Leningrad, according to reliable information, Polish submarines are hiding in ports of the Baltic states and find their covert support on the part of certain government personages," Tass said.

"According to information available, besides Polish submarines, submarines of other states are hiding in those ports."

The announcement indicated strongly that soviet "measures" aimed especially at Estonia, one of the small Baltic states north of Poland and adjoining Russia.

U-Boat Disappears
"On Sept. 13, a Polish submarine previously interned in Tallinn, port of Estonia, escaped and disappeared in an unknown direction," Tass said.

"This is believed to be a case of abetment on the part of Estonian authorities. The command of the soviet Baltic fleet is taking measures against the possible diversions on the part of the submarines hiding in Baltic waters."

(A dispatch from Tallinn by the Ritzau, Danish news agency, said the Polish submarine Orzel eluded Estonian gunfire early yesterday to escape from Tallinn, where she had been interned. Shore batteries and Estonian warships were said to have tried to halt the craft.)

With red army units as deep as 110 miles within Poland's eastern border, Germany and soviet Russia joined last night in radio communique to declare the Russian troops "pursue no aim counter to the interests of Germany or the Soviet Union in contradicting the spirit and the letter of the non-aggression pact concluded by Germany and the U.S.S.R."

"Peace And Order"
"On the contrary, the task of these troops is to re-establish in Poland the peace and order disrupted by the collapse of the Polish state and to assist the population of Poland in reconstructing conditions of their state existence."

The last phrase was taken by some sources as pointing toward creation of a small Polish buffer state.

Foreign military experts estimated the Soviet Union has at least 2,000,000 soldiers on her western front and that 500,000 to 1,000,000 in action in Poland.

The soviet general staff announced last night that it was advancing its 500-mile frontier, with the most advanced units at Volkovysk, 110 miles from the Russian border and about 80 miles north of Brest-Litovsk.

Commercial Club Plans Program of Activities

Members of the Commercial club of Appleton High school met Monday afternoon to plan a social and athletic program for the year.

Fall Activities To be Mapped at Church Meetings

First Baptist Church School Council Will Convene Thursday

Getting ready for another year of activity, many of the local churches are calling meetings this week of their church school councils and teachers to line up the program for the fall and winter season. First Baptist church school council is scheduled to meet Thursday evening, while Sunday school teachers and officers of Appleton Gospel temple will meet at 7:45 Friday night at the church.

A workers' conference consisting of officers of Memorial Presbyterian church and the church organizations as well as their husbands and wives was held last night at the Presbyterian church following a dinner. Plans were made to integrate the work for the coming year and outline goals and objectives.

The church school faculty of All Saints Episcopal church met Monday night in the rectory's study.

Sponsor Sale
Circles 4 and 5 of First Congregational church are joining in sponsoring a rummage sale today at the church under the leadership of Mrs. John W. Wilson and Mrs. Gust Hertzfeldt. A benefit card party will be given by Circles 4 and 5 of the Congregational church and Sunday school club and George D. Eggleston Relief corps, auxiliary to the Grand Army of the Republic, Thursday afternoon at Elk hall.

Young people of the Gospel temple entertained last night at the home of Miss Claudia Dell, N. Clark street, in honor of Miss Dorothy Price, Milbank, S. D., formerly of Appleton, who has been assisting at the local temple for several weeks.

At St. Paul Lutheran church this week the Junior Young People's society will meet at 7:45 this evening. The senior choir at 7:45 Thursday night and the junior choir at 7 o'clock Friday night. Last Sunday morning the Rev. F. M. Brandt, pastor, preached on "The Preservation of Life is Sure in the Divine Counsel of God."

The Rev. Robert K. Bell, pastor of Memorial Presbyterian church, spoke Sunday morning on the theme, "Resurrection for Living." First Congregational church, Dr. John B. Hanna, pastor, gave a sermon entitled "Our Bondage to Fragments," while at First Baptist church the Rev. R. H. Spangler, pastor, preached on "Living by Excesses."

Lutheran Services
"Quench Not the Spirit" was the subject of the sermon by the Rev. F. C. Reuter at First English Lutheran church Sunday. The Rev. Theodore Marth, pastor of Zion Lutheran church, spoke Sunday on "We are Citizens of the Kingdom," and the Rev. Clemens Zeidler, new pastor of Trinity English Lutheran church, gave a sermon entitled "The Quest for Happiness."

"The Israelites at Bochim" was the topic discussed by the Rev. A. Guenther at St. John Evangelical and Reformed church. At Mt. Olive Lutheran church the Rev. R. E. Ziesemer, pastor, preached on "Home Responsibilities," while at Emmanuel Evangelical church the Rev. G. H. Blum talked on "Conquering Our Self Respect." Dr. Harry C. Culver, pastor of First Methodist church, gave a sermon Sunday entitled "We are Citizens of the Kingdom."

"Matter" was the subject of the lesson-sermon for Sunday at First Church of Christ Scientist. Among the citations from the Bible was the following: "Love not the world, neither the things that are in the world. For all that is in the world, the lust of the flesh, and the lust of the eyes, and the pride of life, is not of the Father, but is of the world. And the world passeth away, and the lust thereof."

COMMITTEE MEETING
The insurance committee of the Outagamie county board will meet at 9:30 Friday morning at the courthouse. Renewal of insurance on the tuberculosis, diabetes, and on the asylum will be considered.

Claim State Laws Not Reason For Marriage Rate Decrease

(Post-Crescent Madison Bureau)
Madison—The state board of health today produced evidence to show that Wisconsin's new venereal disease and blood test law has not caused the recent decline in the state marriage rate, but that economic conditions and other causes have been responsible.

When the Wassermann law went into effect in Wisconsin in 1937, state marriages dropped about 10 per cent, it was reported. Examination of county statistics in states bordering Wisconsin, however, showed that during that same period, Wisconsin couples marrying outside the state decreased in number even more, a board of health bulletin reports.

"As we refuse to believe that any considerable number of people refuse to get married just because of the law, or that many went more than one state to find a Gretna Green and thus were missed in our study, we must conclude that the drop in marriages in the state was

Throngs of Polish Refugees Plodding Homeward; Germans Offer Use of Army's Trucks

BY EDWIN SHANKE
Jaslo, Poland—(P)—Tens of thousands of hapless Polish refugees are plodding homeward wearily over the dusty roads along which they fled before the advancing Germans.

"I saw this tragic picture while en route from Krakow to Jaslo, deep in Polish Galicia. The refugees are emerging from forests and other hiding places, some a hundred miles from their homes. Most of them travel afoot and some in rickety carts, but during the last few days German supply trucks, returning empty from the front, have given lifts to many."

I saw scores of women carrying babies in shawl slings, the men trudging along beside them with great packs on their shoulders, packs containing all their remaining possessions. Many of the children of walking age led the family cow.

Nearly All Barefoot
Some of the families stuffed their possessions into decrepit baby buggies, which often broke down. Nearly all the refugees were barefoot. At Tarnow, a city of 55,000 east of Krakow, hundreds of the homeless Poles congregated all day opposite the local German commander's headquarters to wait for empty trucks returning from the front. On their arrival they are mobbed by the refugees.

Especially anxious to take care of women and children, the German soldiers keep the men away from the trucks until the others are inside. German officials said many Polish soldiers were among the refugees. They were men who, through the lightning advance of the German army, became separated from the main body of the retreating Polish army. Thereafter they worked their way to friendly farms and changed into civilian clothes.

Appleton Plants Readied for War

Plans Formulated to Utilize Products in Event Of Emergency

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau
Washington—Three Appleton manufacturing plants have been surveyed by army-navy experts and found prepared to produce supplies needed in wartime, ready to go into quick production.

These concerns, the names or natures of which the war department does not reveal, have given schedules showing how much they will be expected to produce, and in what time they must make deliveries.

No definite contracts have been signed with any concerns for wartime production, it was said, and no obligation exists on either side.

The companies, however, have made their plans for any necessary plant changes, and are prepared to go to work if this country should need their products for war use.

The war department has, for the first time, a policy of not using more than half the productive capacity of any plant. This new policy was adopted so that the companies can continue their "civilian" production and not find their customers all gone at the end of the war, as happened in many instances following the World war, officials explained.

Red Cross Drive Will Open Nov. 11

'Every Chapter Ready' Is Slogan for Roll Call In County

"Every Chapter Ready" will be the slogan for the annual roll call of the Outagamie county chapter of the American Red Cross this year, according to Mrs. Mabel O. Shannon, executive secretary.

The campaign for funds will be conducted in the county from Nov. 11 to 30 under the direction of co-chairmen, George Werner and the Rev. G. H. Blum.

The national Red Cross organization this year will seek a million more members than last year when more than 34 millions joined the Red Cross. Outagamie county's quota last year was 2,200 members. The goal will be increased this year under the national drive, Mrs. Shannon said.

W. E. Smith is chairman of the Outagamie county chapter and will aid the leadership of the drive along with other committee heads.

Believe Missing War Correspondent Is Safe

Chicago—(P)—Carroll Binder, foreign news editor of the Chicago Daily News, said today he believed Richard Mower, one of the newspaper's European correspondents reported missing in Poland, was safe somewhere in Rumania.

The belief was based on information furnished by Stefani news agency filed from Rome at 5:42 a. m. Rome time today (10:42 p. m. C.S.T. Monday).

Bridges Believes Term Must Last as Long as Conflict

Says Power to Make Decisions Should Not Be Left to One Man

Milwaukee—(P)—"Congress must stay in session until the end of the war if the American people are to remain the masters of their own destiny," United States Senator H. Styles Bridges (R-N.H.) told interviewers here yesterday.

"In a critical situation like this, involving the issue of war or peace, life or death, the power to make decisions should not be conferred on any one man, no matter who he is," Bridges said, adding:

"I am going to use all my influence to see that congress, the only check the people have on the president, remains in session throughout the war."

The New England senator, asserting he did not believe any state of emergency exists in this country, stated "I want to find out by what authority the president proclaims such a state."

"Also," Bridges continued, "I want to know what motives there are behind his proclamation. When I get back to Washington I intend to find out. . . . The only emergency I can see is that which arises from the president's unwarranted declaration that such a state exists."

Representative W. Keefe, Republican, who represents the Sixth Wisconsin district in congress, declared last night he opposes lifting the arms embargo in the present neutrality law.

"I shall advocate," he said, "extending the present law so as to prohibit use of American ships or American seamen from carrying non-contraband material to belligerent nations and shall insist on purchases of non-contrabands be paid for before delivery to a belligerent purchaser."

While in Milwaukee, Bridges visited with Representative Charles Hawks, Jr., Horicon Republican, who is chairman of the "Bridges for president" movement.

The senator and Hawks conferred here among others with Pierpont Wood of Janesville, Republican national committeeman, and Cyrus L. Philipp of Milwaukee, former Republican state chairman.

Phrase 'Neutral' Needs Explaining, Lawrence States

Probes Status of Nations Eligible to Buy Arms From U. S.

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington—The finality with which some members of congress talk about "neutrality" and "keeping America out of war" is rivaled by the perplexity of officials in the executive branch of the government in determining what is really meant by the phrase "neutral."

Thus, Russia now occupies a large portion of Poland in the middle of a war. Does this make Russia a belligerent? Or does Russia remain a "neutral" and, as such, eligible to receive munitions, airplanes and even battleships from American shipyards?

The Russian foreign office has been careful in its diplomatic notes to other governments to indicate that its army entered Poland merely to protect some minorities in the population in view of the "disappearance of the Polish state." International law records many an instance in which a military or naval force is used to protect nationals without involving in any way a belligerent status.

Thus, the United States landed an expeditionary force at Vera Cruz early in 1914 and occupied the port for several months as a reprisal, and no declaration of war was issued. No European country regarded America as a belligerent in that controversy. There have been similar examples of the movement of troops into neighboring territories without a war declaration.

But, if Russia is to be regarded as a "neutral," and there are signs that, for diplomatic reasons, the British and French will choose to regard the Soviets in that category, shall America take the initiative in recognizing that Russia is engaged in war and add Russia to the list of countries to which arms may not be shipped?

These are practical problems which a fast-changing picture in Europe has brought to state department officials. Neutrality is no simple term which can be defined nowadays, yet thousands of officials of the government are obliged by our existing laws to permit the shipment of arms and ammunition and airplanes to countries like Russia, Italy and the smaller Balkan countries which are definitely within the German sphere of influence, and must deny these supplies not only to the British and French, but to our next-door neighbor, Canada, which frankly and honestly accepted a belligerent status, though herself three thousand miles away from the theater of war.

These complexities over enforcing neutrality are what persuade experts in international law for the most part to say that the task of seeing whether articles of contraband should or should not reach either side in a war is the task of belligerents who detain and inspect cargoes, and is not the task of a neutral country itself. For one thing, the whole theory of transshipment of contraband through neutral countries contiguous to a belligerent has sometimes caused quotas to be set up whereby a naval power usually strives to see to it that importation rights of a neutral are not abused.

British Position
Sooner or later, the British navy will undertake to prevent anything in excess of given quotas from going to Holland or the Scandinavian countries or to Russia and Italy. If American ships are used in this trade between the United States and certain neutral countries, then the danger of submarine attacks will persist as the danger of seizure by the allied naval forces.

Under international law, there is no obligation on any neutral shipper to find out what happens eventually to his exports. But, under the existing federal statute passed by congress in 1937, the obligation of determining the ultimate destination of a shipment has been added to America's enforcement staff. Anybody who makes a fraudulent statement as to ultimate destination is, of course, subject to prosecution. But Europeans are not as simple-minded as that. They arrange for bona fide shipments from the United States to bona fide recipients in neutral countries. The American agents actually know nothing about the ultimate destination, even though they may be suspicious about it.

Buying System
All they know is that orders are placed by persons in neutral countries. The belligerents then arrange with a different set of agents for trans-shipment. Under such circumstances, American officials nevertheless are supposed to trace the cargoes to the ultimate user, but this is a sad story in the history of the American service on custom matters. Little help has been given American agents in finding out what is happening internally in another country. Yet the present law more or less puts the burden on the neutrality staff of the executive branch of the government.

Neutrality will become, so far as these matters of shipment are concerned, an almost unworkable and impractical task before the war has gone many months. That is why the plan to sell anything to anybody and transfer the title at the seacoast, putting the responsibility for transportation on foreign countries, is being pressed by the department of state as the most practical way out—and a formula, incidentally, that conforms to international law.

CCC ENROLLMENT
Another CCC enrollment for war veterans will be held in early October, according to Edward Lutz, county service officer. Applications for CCC may be filed at Lutz' office.

High School Grid Squad Drills for Conference Game

Kaws Will Go to Menasha For League Opener Friday Night

Kaukauna — With a 26 to 6 victory to their credit in the season's opener Saturday against St. Mary's of Menasha, Kaukauna High school griders began workouts yesterday in preparation for this week's tilt with Menasha. The first conference game will be played on the Blue-jays' field Friday night.

The Kaws came through Saturday's battle in fairly good shape. Captain Len Wolfe, however, showed up Monday morning with an infected thumb, and will miss practices the first part of this week. Karl Giordana is still hampered with an arm injury and it is doubtful if the Kaw star will see much action this week.

Captain Paul Little devoted some time yesterday to going over mistakes of Saturday's game. It seems the play of the line, especially, was far from satisfactory. A general lethargy might have been due to the hot weather of last week, but no such excuse would be available for this week's contest, Little pointed out. Linemen received the major share of attention yesterday and will continue to be intensively drilled this week.

Reserves Landed

The play of the reserve backs Saturday got some commendation from Little. Willis Ranquette, a sophomore, and Phelan Fernal, playing his first game, bore the brunt of the Kaw attack when Giordana was on the sidelines. Six Kaukauna fumbles marred the attack, however, but only one was fatal, leading as it did to the lone enemy score.

The use of substitutions Saturday showed Little will be fairly well fortified in most positions this year. A total of 24 players saw action, compared to 16 used by the Zephyrs.

After meeting Menasha the Kaws will play their first home game here, meeting Neenah on Saturday, Sept. 30.

Prizes Awarded in Kamera Klub Contest

Kaukauna — Prizes in the "free for all" contest of Kaukauna Kamera Klub went to Laverne Schiedermayer, first, Isabelle Johnson, second, and Don Wenzel, third, as the group met last night at the F. J. Pechman studio on Main avenue. Fifteen prints were entered in the contest. The next contest will be on animal pictures.

Sylvia Schneider of Appleton will show colored slides of western scenes at the next meeting, Oct. 2. Four new members joined the club last night.

Women's Pin League Begins Play Thursday

Kaukauna — The Women's bowling league will open another season Thursday evening with eight teams entered. The first night's schedule pits Goldins against Kaukauna Klubs and Tittmans against Schell at 7 o'clock, and Mellow Brews against Bergs and Franks versus Thilmans at 9 o'clock.

Tonight Major League meeting will hold an organization meeting at Schell alley.

Girls Courtesy Club Elects New Officers

Kaukauna — Officers were elected yesterday as the Girls Courtesy club of Park school met. Mary Louise Haas was named president, with Carol Schley, Ruth Koglin, Rosemary Stegeman and Betty Johnson vice presidents; Carol Leigh, secretary, and Ellen Rieth, treasurer. A program was presented, with Betty Begun talking on her western trip, Marjorie Burdick speaking on her butterfly hobby and Carol Leigh talking on model airplanes.

School Athletic Units Will Seek New Members

Kaukauna — The MIAA and WIAA, boys' and girls' athletic associations at Kaukauna High school, will open annual membership drives this week. New sports this year will be badminton, shuffleboard and paddle tennis, in addition to free throw, volleyball, basketball and ping-pong tournaments will be held.

Two Pay $1 Fines for Disorderly Conduct

Kaukauna — Elmer and Reinhard Wendlandt, Lawe street, were fined $1 and costs each before Justice Abe Golds yesterday on charges of disorderly conduct. They were arrested Sunday morning by Kaukauna police.

School Social Events Will Begin Saturday

Kaukauna — The first social event of the high school year will be held Saturday evening, in the form of a "Pirate Jamboree" dance in the gymnasium. It is sponsored by the senior class.

The Kaukauna office of the Appleton Post-Crescent is located in the Jules Mertes barbershop on Wisconsin avenue. William Dowling is the correspondent in charge and the telephone number is 107. Subscribers may call this number until 6:30 in the evening if their papers were not delivered.

Map Shows Why the Western Front Is Big Headache for Generals of Opposing Armies

This map of the busiest area of the western front during the early weeks of the war shows why there has been little spectacular action. Note how each fortified line (France's Maginot and Germany's Siegfried) is composed of several layers. The units in each layer are connected with each other and with other layers by tunnels or trenches. And far to the rear, perhaps 40 miles behind the pillbox fronts, come huge fortresses. So when an army has mopped up the enemy's front lines, its work has just begun. This map is based on information from reliable military experts.

Mauel Renamed Chief Ranger Of Catholic Forester Unit

Kaukauna — Edmund Mauel was reelected chief ranger of Catholic Order of Foresters, Holy Cross court No. 309, as the group met last night at the church hall. Others named were John Bloch, vice chief ranger; Matt Weber, past chief ranger; R. H. McCarthy, recording secretary; Charles Wagner, financial secretary; and Joseph Schlude, treasurer. The Rev. Leonard Wolfel, assistant pastor of Holy Cross church, gave a brief talk. A chavari was held for two of the recently married members, Joseph Schlude and Jerome Heindel. Al Vanevenhoven received the special prize. Officers will be installed Oct. 2.

Plans for a district meeting here early in December will be made.

School Observes Constitution Day

Mrs. W. C. Sullivan Is Speaker on High School Program

Kaukauna — High school students celebrated the anniversary of the signing of the United States' constitution yesterday with a program in the auditorium. Mrs. W. C. Sullivan, former member of the state board of control, was the main speaker, with Clarence Kriesa faculty chairman.

The band opened the program with "America," and closed it with "The Star Spangled Banner." Olin G. Dryer, principal, and Kriesa spoke before Mrs. Sullivan was introduced.

Mrs. Sullivan reviewed the events, from the close of the revolution until 1787, leading up to the constitutional convention, and described difficulties met with in drawing and ratifying the document.

She emphasized that the constitution was not meant by its makers to be a static, changeless document, but one which was to grow with the nation. It has been changed 21 times, in the form of amendments, Mrs. Sullivan said, and it will doubtless be changed more to meet the needs of each succeeding generation.

Take Out 1st Hunting And Trapping Licenses

Waupaca — Paul Ovrom clerk of court, has purchased the season's first hunting license and while Irving Wegner, Ogdensburg, the first trapper's license. Mrs. Leona Carr, Ogdensburg, is the first woman to purchase a hunting license this fall at the office of County Clerk L. J. Steiger.

Mrs. Alice Larkee has engaged Miss Evelyn Bradley for her secretary in the office of register of deeds. She succeeds Miss Dorothy Wendlandt, New London.

Mr. and Mrs. Gorman Smith and Mrs. Smith's mother, Mrs. Rose Mendelson, are occupying the home they recently purchased on S. State street from the George James estate. The move was made the last of the week.

Miss Katherine Kern and Miss Dorothy Gates of the high school faculty returned Monday morning from a weekend at Galloway and Wittenberg.

Miss Kathleen Cristy entertained at a house party at her cottage on Sunset lake Monday evening. Her guests were the Misses Esther Schneider and Miss Edna Earle. Miss Earle whose home is in Evansville was a classmate of Miss Cristy at Lawrence college and was enroute to Evansville where she has accepted a teaching position.

Marshall Graff, Appleton, was in the city Monday in the interests of the University of Wisconsin Extension center which opened that day in the high school.

Waupaca High School Boys Go to Green Bay

Waupaca — A group of high school boys attended the Packer-Cardinal game at Green Bay. They were Tom Holly, Sam Taylor, Roger McLean, Billy and Ward Rudersdorf, Ken-

Works Board to Submit Report on Garbage Disposal

Council Will Act on Bids For Quantity of Fire Hose

Kaukauna — A report on the possibility of setting up a city-wide system of garbage disposal is expected from the board of public works as the common council meets tonight. At the last meeting the board reported it had met and discussed plans for garbage disposal, but that it was too late this summer to begin. The city health officer had been notified to issue a proclamation asking citizens to observe health regulations, the board added.

Woodrow Diehl, who this spring was given permission by the council to collect garbage in the city, asked that the council outline what service it would require before he submitted a bid on caring for the entire city. Diehl said he thought this should be started this winter, and not wait until spring.

Five Hose Bids

Bids will be opened on 600 feet of fire hose, which the council voted to advertise for Sept. 5. The board of public works has awarded the bid for sand to be used on the paving projects to Bernard Schlude after rejecting all bids Sept. 5, when a bidder from Kaukauna was high. New bids were received.

Alderman T. L. Seggelink, who was the council's delegate to the League of Wisconsin Municipalities convention at Wausau, will report on the sessions there. The committee on claims other than accounts will report on a claim by Arnold Fink, Tenth street, asking $375 damages for the loss of five rabbits.

Haecke of Fond du Lac spent Saturday with Mrs. F. N. Torrey.

Mrs. Florian Harriman of Appleton and Mr. and Mrs. Rollin McIntroy and children of Evanston, Ill., were guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. F. N. Torrey.

Officers Elected by High School Classes

Waupaca — High school classes elected the following officers Friday afternoon: Senior class—President, Norman Sawyer; vice president, Betty Cornwall; secretary-treasurer, Philip LaSage; juniors—President, Douglas Zwickey; vice president, Gordon Jensen; secretary-treasurer, Lois Leland; sophomores—President, Bobby Christofferson; vice president, Joyce Pugmire; secretary-treasurer, Bernadine Simpson; freshmen—President, Tyler Wood; vice president, Lois Nelson, and secretary-treasurer, Marion Anderson.

Faculty advisers for the seniors are Miss Laura Shoemaker, William Cullen, Miss Gertrude Kundson and George Henrickson; junior advisers, Vincent Graham, Miss Sophelia Kurkowski, Miss Dorothy Gates and Miss Vivian Steger; sophomores, Harold Canaan, Miss Tild Curley, E. V. Huggdahl and Miss Katherine Kern; freshmen, Miss Ruth Howlin, Miss Margaret Stenler, Miss Mary Linck and Harold Porter.

The junior high school advisers are Miss Clare McGregor and Henry Lampman for the eighth grade and Miss Stella Rhinehart and Miss Pearl Wiese, seventh grade.

Ladies Aid Society to Serve Chicken Dinner

Hortonville — Members of the Bethlehem Lutheran Ladies Aid society will serve a public chicken dinner Sunday in the church dining room, from 11 o'clock until all have been served.

Elmer Falck submitted to a major operation at St. Elizabeth hospital, Appleton, Saturday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Victor Behrend will entertain relatives and friends at a free public dance in the Hortonville Community hall Wednesday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Behrend were married recently at Clinton, Iowa.

Mrs. Grover Wolf and son of Appleton and Margaret and Emma neth Emerichs, Douglas Zwickey, Leonard Groholski, Edward and Harvey Peterson, Allan Potts, Bob Hall, Willys Holmes, Laverne Nelson, Hugh Johnson, Wendall McHenry, Gordon Jensen and Bobby Christofferson.

The boys were accompanied by their coaches, William Cullen and Vincent Graham, and Reid McLean and Edward Procknow, who furnished cars for the students.

Congress Faces Real Test In War Problem Decisions

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER

Washington—One word before the battle begins, before congress meets, not as does the German reichstag to hear what the orders are, but to weigh in its own discretion the recommendations of the president and then vote them up or down as it chooses.

That this can happen at all is a remarkable thing in these times, a thing that cannot occur now in any other great country. Everywhere else, among the major powers, representative assemblies are either dead or exist only, as in France and England, in a state of suspended animation. We alone are still trying to make a go of democracy.

If that is a legitimate source of pride, it also is a responsibility to make us humble and to safeguard this lone free-functioning survivor of the great institution of self-government. Of all conceivable tragedies to the cause of democracy, the worst would be for congress to fall in this hour to show itself equal to its responsibility.

That responsibility is not to uphold the hand of the administration. That responsibility of congress is great but simple to discuss with intelligence and understanding the questions which arise and to decide them with a conscience single to the best interests of the United States. There can be no other standard. Adhering to it, we may safely let the chips fall where they may.

In what other major country now could Senator Borah have made the speech which he made the other night, discussing what he deemed to be the dangers of the administration's desire to repeal the arms embargo? I have been unable to see any such danger in this as Senator Borah does, and I am more certain in that belief now that I have heard what he has to say on the other side. No position can safely be taken in a democracy until it has withstood the

Safety Course in Schools Launched

Police Officers Show Pictures, Give Talks On Safety

The street and highway safety program, sponsored by the Appleton police department was started Monday in Appleton schools by Sergeant Carl Radtke, head of the department's traffic division, and Harry Salzman, motorcycle officer.

The officers this week are showing the motion picture, "Handle Bar Hazards," in the various schools and are giving talks in the schools. Schools visited Monday were Edison, Jefferson and Washington.

The schedule of visits for the rest of the week is: Today, St. Therese, St. Paul and St. Mary Parochial schools; Wednesday, Wilson Junior High schools, St. Matthew Parochial school and Columbus school; Thursday, Morgan school and Zion Lutheran school; and Friday, Sacred Heart Parochial school, Franklin school and Roosevelt and McKinley Junior High schools.

Legislative Parley For Dairy Farmers

Scheduled Sept. 27

A legislative institute for dairy farmers, one of five to be held in the state, will be held at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning, Sept. 27, at the Appleton Vocational school auditorium, according to J. F. Magnus, county agent.

Congressman Hull, who is sponsoring legislation affecting dairy farmers in congress, is expected to be at the meeting along with Warren Clark, head of the university extension division, and Don Anderson, farm economist connected with the college of agriculture.

The meeting will be held to acquaint dairy farmers with the work now being done in congress to study legislation now pending and to seek new ideas for the relief of the dairy farmers.

FRANCE AND ENGLAND PREPARE TO FINANCE THE WAR

England and France have between them about 7 billions of dollars in gold and American securities which they propose to spend in this country, in addition to the funds received from their exports to us, in order to conduct the war if that catastrophe continues until this great sum is absorbed.

The gold is easily transferred here and changed into money or provides a suitable and effective security for proper credits. But France and England take over from their own citizens their stocks, bonds or other property in this country and give them their own bonds in lieu thereof. Then they sell the American property or securities and provide themselves with the necessary dollars to make purchases here.

This is a great hardship upon their people in that it clips the wing of independence, albeit most of the people would probably consent for patriotic reasons.

But men like to make their own investments. Sometimes they like to speculate in far off lands. It may be a gold mine in South Africa or a brewery in St. Louis. If they are men of considerable wealth they feel that in thus spreading their investments they are providing safety for themselves against almost any eventuality.

If this money comes into this country as a necessary but unwelcome result of the war it will enrich America in certain particulars, but probably not enough to offset the losses that occur in other particulars, although no one can know the exact balance until after the conflict is over.

Yet it is noticeable that Switzerland, Scandinavia and Holland, particularly, who have kept out of wars for so long are wealthy countries, practically devoid of unemployment, able to pay out to the old a supporting income and to provide to the young practical and workable opportunities.

When World War No. 1 broke out in 1914 this country only had about a billion of debt. Some of that was for building the Panama Canal. We had no unemployment. We were making splendid headway, steadily and progressively.

Had we not entered the war Europe would have fought itself to a standstill and Versailles, the even sort of peace to which it has been accustomed for so many centuries. We would have been debbled.

This known history should lead this country to employ Never Again as its slogan, if it must have one, until the prevailing conflict has terminated.

WAR REFERENDUM

The Gallup poll shows a very pronounced drop in the percentage of the American people that today want a referendum on whether we go to war.

The reason for this, we believe, is that as war conditions develop the people can plainly see how impractical it would be to have a nationwide vote upon the subject. Probably they are buttressed in this position by the fact that they see public men everywhere opposed to our participation in the prevailing European struggle, and they may thus be lulled into a false sense of security by the appearance of things.

A hard encounter or a great blunder may sometimes shake confidence in a system that is basically sound, although not perfect, and thus we may be sent scurrying into the arms of another system with far less efficiency and dependability, just for the purpose of attempting to prevent the recurrence of the former error.

We must not forget that we are committed to the representative form of government, and that direct democracy which has been tried out in numerous places a great number of times has been found bungling and inefficient. Even in the days when America was created and only had about three million people referendums, except as to basic principles of life, and never as to passing the works of the day, were discarded as unworkable.

A representative body in a democracy like ours mirrors the opinions of the people with great accuracy, and ordinarily polishes up those opinions to make them more effective and workable.

Instead of complaining at what representatives do it might be better to reflect that the character of our laws depends upon these representatives and that the character of the representatives depends on us.

"ANY RAGS, ANY BONES, ANY BOTTLES TODAY?"

The government of the United States has just come into the title to the Congress Hotel at Chicago. If anyone has an old hotel, built about 1893, and in which the heating plant has been pounding like an automatic hammer for 20 years or more, instead of giving up and tearing the old rattletrap down, it is wiser to sell it to Uncle Sam. If you have the right sort of card written by the right sort of politician the door of the RFC may be sprung with good results.

The notice of sale of the Congress showed that the people had in it altogether $1,400,000. While other and newer Chicago hotels have been getting on their feet and even operating profitably despite the eternal depression, the Congress was like a sick elephant that could hardly make one knee when it collapsed again.

But now it becomes what is known in the great political trade as "good pickings." Someone is always willing to rent government property if the rent is right. And the way to make the rent right, if you happen to live in Chicago, is to see the Kelly-Nash machine whose motto is "A third term for Roosevelt."

No one will be so naive as to go to the subsidiary company of the RFC which now owns this property and try to rent it without at least a phone call from high-ups.

The government in business is not only inefficiency but pull, hypocrisy and corruption.

The recent exposure of the Huey Long machine brought to light nothing extreme, nothing that anyone familiar with the wide-spread use of money in politics, wouldn't expect.

When Mr. Jesse Jones of RFC declined to even give the congressional committee any idea of the huge losses suffered to date but said they were huge he was not surprising anyone but only revealing the natural and expected under the circumstances.

LaGUARDIA'S WISCONSIN ADVICE ON THE SHOW-OFF

Up at the Municipal League session at Wausau, New York's colorful Mayor asked his hearers to "let Secretary Hull handle our foreign relations" and advised them distinctly to "refrain from utterances on foreign relations which might be misconstrued by either side of the European conflict."

The advice is late from this particular gentleman who publicly characterized Germany's ruler only two years ago as a "brown-shirted fanatic" and otherwise derided him as too fat for words.

If Mr. LaGuardia could now convince Mr. Roosevelt to also let Secretary Hull, a sane, restrained, dignified but determined man, continue to handle the foreign relations of this government without any of those exuberant, effervescent, meteoric speeches this country, other countries and the peace of the world would be benefited.

It is one of the funniest indictments of American public officials that so many of them think they have to get up publicly and scream until they are black in the face against some form of government existing in certain autocracies for which Americans haven't the least bit of time.

Either Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. LaGuardia have been personally floundering in a bayou or Mr. LaGuardia is now wrong in suggesting that men in official positions, municipal, state, or national, hold their tongues in relation to foreign affairs or frankly begin their speeches with something like this, "I am about to begin a little show-off."

SOMEONE BLUNDERED

Truth, which someone has described as the first casualty in every war, sometimes gets through the steel circle however, much as a ray of sunshine shoots through a cloud filled sky when least expected.

There was the frank confession by English anti-aircraft gunners that they shot down one of their own aircraft thinking it a plane from Swastikaland. There is always welcome assurance in items of news of this character since the great democracies—we mean the real ones as distinguished from the South American pseudo and certain of its cousins in Europe—have the hardihood to stand up under mistakes whereas there is a constant tendency in the dictatorships to put plenty of sugar in everything they give the people.

Perhaps the item coming from England is an exception. Certainly the censorship there is rigid enough. But more of these exceptions will bring more respect for the country that creates them.

A Verse for Today

By Anne Campbell

AT THE SUMMER COTTAGE

I unpacked every cotton frock.
And all my hose and shoes.
The books I live by, and the clock.
Linen of rainbow hues.
Then I unwrapped the gloomy dress
My soul had worn to town,
And hung my long unhappiness
Away with my best gown.
Within the space of one bright day,
Unpacking joyfully,
I flung a year's dark care away
Upon a cedar tree!

DALE HARRISON'S In Old New York

New York.—In and out of the offices of Equity, the union of professional stage performers, stroll the "at liberty" actors. They do not like the bluntness of saying they are jobless, therefore they say they are "at liberty."

Here is pride on parade. In the opinion of an actor the important thing always is front. No matter how long since he has eaten and no matter if he has no pillow for his head, he must forever put on the act of Success.

This day the Equity offices were very busy. War was brewing in the profession—that strange conflict of A.A.A.A. and A.F.A. involving the question of where control of the profession should rest. Into this scene strode a middle-aged actor, a little stout, a little bald, a little old-fashioned, but with the assurance of one who might just have come from signing fat contracts with a dozen Broadway producers to star in a dozen shows. He fooled no one but himself.

At Equity there is a bulletin board. On it each day are posted lists of producers who are casting, together with the type of actors they need. This is so Equity members may know where to apply for work. You find the same thing along Sixth Avenue where the employment agency lists less glamorous jobs—cook for lumber crew in Maine, dishwashers, charwomen, bookkeepers; and on Sixth Avenue the jobless workers stand before the boards unashamed, for they want work and do not care who knows it.

But at Equity, because of their pride, the jobless actors and actresses pretend not to be interested. The middle-aged actor strolled nonchalantly past the bulletin board. Only by observing him closely could one see that he cast a swift, sidewise glance at the board. He wandered about the room, but from time to time he managed to pass close to the board, reading a little more each time until he had digested the casting requirements of the day.

Occasionally he would approach a group of actors who were chatting and would speak, hoping perhaps that among them would be an actor-at-work who might suggest a bit of lunch. It was a bad day for that, however. At last he found two actors in animated conversation by a table. One actor pulled out a package of cigarettes and offered one to his companion. He then took one himself. Fumbling for a match, the owner of the cigarettes placed the package on the edge of the table. He lighted up and, still talking animatedly, reached for the package to return it to his pocket.

The package was gone. In the brief seconds that had elapsed, the middle-aged actor had slipped it from the table into his own pocket and wandered on with marked dignity.

It wasn't really larceny. It was pride. The "at liberty" actor would rather have cut off an arm than to have admitted himself to be too poor even to buy a smoke. If he had asked, he could have had as many cigarettes as he needed; but pride forbade him. So he fished what he could have had free. So damning to man is his Pride.

Some of us were invited late in August to Stapleton, Staten Island, to see a pretty 22-year-old young lady emulate the great Houdini. The girl, Jean Brandon, daughter of the magician Brandon, has long been ambitious to become known as the female Houdini and the adventure at Staten Island was intended to clinch her claim to the title.

Miss Brandon was to attempt one of Houdini's greatest tricks. She was to be handcuffed, sewed into a mail bag, nailed and chained into a foot packing case, and then lowered into 100 feet of water. "If everything goes all right," it was announced, "she will free herself and come to the surface in three minutes."

At the last hour the stunt was cancelled; not by Jean Brandon but by her friends among the professional magicians. They knew, despite the young woman's confident insistence, that no legerdemain, no magic and no sorcery could enable her, under those conditions to come to the surface alive.

In the matter of sensational escapes, all magicians know, there was only one Houdini; and he left no heir.

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington.—What does the President mean when he suggests that the U. S. "fall back" on international law?

Grover

Many of it is in serious danger. Just now it is suffering an all-time low mark of non-observance.

Edward M. Borchard of Columbia university, a foremost authority, insists, however, that even now international law is a binding set of rules applied by and to states in their international intercourse.

International law is a luckless code in one respect. It is built up extensively in peace, only to be shattered and disregarded in considerable part in war. Even in war, there is strict adherence to an extensive portion of it. For example, prisoners are not slaughtered now, as they once were.

Yet a long-accepted rule against making war on defenseless citizens went overboard in the World War, and was not respected by the Italians in Ethiopia, the Japanese in China, and perhaps not by the Germans in Poland.

Development of air warfare was blamed. Rules respecting this zone of battle are so new that they do not carry the force of long custom and use that has established much international law.

Egypt Had Treaties

Those who read through the President's proclamation of neutrality, the one he called the "regular proclamation" to distinguish it from the one under the neutrality act, noted that it was based entirely on widely-accepted international law.

Among other things it prohibits belligerent warships using our ports for bases of operation. It orders our citizens to take no part in the combat.

International law, like the common law, sort of "grew up" with the times. Ancient Egypt had treaties with certain of her sister states in which all agreed to respect and protect one another's embassies. Their international law sounded like their own domestic laws. They were called "natural" laws or "laws of all mankind."

Rome enforced a code largely of its own making, but Rome recognized the older principles. International law became really important when Europe began segregating itself into independent states. It had a haphazard growth through the middle centuries until a scholarly Swiss, Hugo Grotius, wrote a treatise in the seventeenth century that was so sound and so widely accepted that he has been known ever since as the father of international law.

Like the ancients, he sought to base international law on "natural justice." It was "natural justice" to ameliorate the condition of prisoners and wounded, to avoid imposing war upon defenseless populations, to respect the sanctity of embassies, truces and treaties. Neutral commerce had certain rights.

Big Nations Write It

International law respecting rights of colonization and sea trade had a tremendous growth after the discovery of America. The various treaties that settled Europe's wars always contributed some new law.

It has always been a habit and still is, for big nations to write much of their own international law and let smaller nations do the best they can. During the World War England imposed a type of blockade that was strictly illegal under the law of nations. Germany practiced a type of sea warfare illegal—until then. Both now are resuming the same practices.

Unfortunately, most international law has to do with conduct of nations during war. Societies and nations have sought to broaden the law so that matters relating to tariffs, immigration, trade preferences, struggles for markets and raw materials, size of armies, navigation, and the like, backward territories could be adjusted with war. Success has been limited.

It is still legal to seize land and people by conquest. We tried to make it internationally illegal in China in 1931 but England backed out on us, much to her present discomfort.

Just a Step Behind the News

By Dave Boone

There's no denying that Hitler is landing all the punches in this war so far. The allies seem to be as wide open as Tony Galento. They look a good deal like the Philites at the moment, but they're bound to get going soon or lose the franchise. It looks more and more like a free-for-all war, and I guess there will be so many in it that they will have to number the players, and arrange for week-end double-headers.

The ground is certainly being laid for a non-stop supply of wars for a hundred years after this one has ended, if it ever ends. Hitler and Stalin are busy with the rest of their lives fighting with each other over the spoils.

All eyes are on Italy now. It's my hunch that Mussolini, Hitler and Stalin all wrote the scenario together, and are strictly co-authors. Mussolini may throw off his blanket and dash on from the sidelines any moment when the dust has cleared.

I've almost given up trying to follow what this war. There are too many new faces in it every day.

IT TAKES TWO TO MAKE A QUARREL OR DOES IT?

Under the Capitol Dome

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison.—This Wyngaard would be doing a service to no one, least of all to the Heil administration, by minimizing the financial circumstances—

Wyngaard

—which can only be called a "crisis"—which now confront the state government. Without exaggeration the capitol has a good chance of seeing "pay" days and a chaotic winter as it has seen for many years.

So pessimistic is the revenue outlook, and so great are the "must appropriations" that it is entirely possible that some of the less dramatic, less politically important functions of the state government may be mercilessly slashed during the next six months or so.

TAX PROSPECTS

This correspondent tries to be completely realistic in detailing the progress of affairs at the statehouse. Today there is a balance of something like $4,000,000 in the treasury, and extremely little likelihood, on the basis of legislative temper as shown during the last few months, of the Republican leadership made.

The Republican leadership made a great show of feeling relieved upon passage of the $10,000,000 cigarette and surtax revenue bill the other day. But a realistic appraisal of the facts will show that it will have very little result in solving the immediate needs of the treasury.

The cigarette tax will not begin to reduce heavily for at least 30 days. The income surtax will not bring in a nickle until sometime next summer, after income taxes start to come in.

Thus there are some sharp-sighted folk in the capitol who refuse to stick their heads into the sand and who acknowledge the possibility that the state of Wisconsin may be broke by Christmas.

It is a curious situation, certainly. A legislature which voted the largest state budget in recent years has refused consistently to enact the kind of revenue legislation which will balance it.

MR. FREY'S SALARIES

The administration has repeatedly complained that the services rendered by the state employees are not commensurate with the salaries paid.

Good August Frey, the governor's good friend and trusted adviser, receives in paying better than average salaries, as the August pay roll of his department of research shows.

Mr. Frey himself is paid $416 a month, as is an accountant in his employ, Ralph Henkel. While ordinary department secretaries get $100 to $150, Hildreth Sullivan, Mr. Frey's secretary is paid a beginning salary of $200. Then there are two investigators at $250 each, W. R. Clark and L. B. Nagler, and one at $200, M. P. McGinty.

The usual salary for investigators in the state service, including the men in the state liquor unit, is $150.

POT-POURRI

There is a report that Governor Heil has indicated his preference for Speaker Thomson in the third district congressional nomination race to come. Although he has not been mentioned previously, Assemblyman Goldthorpe of Grant county is a good bet for a candidacy.

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

QUERY FROM A SOURPUSS

Recently the old grouch who conducts this column mentioned having received a number of sourpusses' approaches for saying in an article here that many elderly folk should have a daily ration of wine or other mild alcoholic beverage. Not that I mean to retract, I can take it back, not alcohol. I'm not old enough yet to need a narcotic. Just between you and me a gentle rebuke skillfully administered does me good. This one, for instance:

Dear Doc Brady: Being one of those "sourpusses" to whom you refer in your answer to the question concerning the use of alcohol, I am interested in the answer.

Your daily ration of wine for elderly people would naturally raise the question, not age is one elderly enough to begin to imbibe? This age limit is rather dreaded by most of us.

2. Just how much should one take, at what time or times and what kind of wine or other alcoholic beverage would be best?

3. If there are members of the younger generation in the home, what would prevent them from considering themselves old enough to begin, seeing such an example?

You as a doctor, must know that this question is only considered an emotional one when it affects the lives of people. Otherwise, even we sourpusses realize that it is a scientific question.

Yours truly,

The age at which an aged valetudinarian may advantageously take an alcohol ration is whenever he or she begins to be cantankerous, peevish, difficult to live with—in short a sourpuss.

It would be remarkable now if many critics in the arid of their tepidation do not distort my teaching into an endorsement of liquor for general use. I have weighed myself and I desire only to emphasize that I said many elderly folk, not all. I should have a daily ration of wine or the mild alcoholic beverage.

A dry sherry or claret is preferable for most of these enfeebled old folk. Beer, however, is well borne by the elderly individual who does not drink it but takes a glass leisurely, sipping it a little at a time.

Wine contains from 6 to 20 per cent of alcohol, most American wines about 10 per cent. Beer or ale contains perhaps 4 per cent of alcohol. A large glass of beer may be reckoned the equivalent of a small glass of wine in alcoholic content. Whiskey or brandy contains 40 to 50 per cent of alcohol. So a tablespoonful of whiskey or brandy (one-half ounce) is nearly equivalent to a wineglassful of wine or a half pint (eight-ounce) glass of beer in alcoholic content. Dilute the tablespoonful of brandy or whiskey with water enough to fill the wineglass, or enough to fill the

in the district if the governor calls a special election. . . . Although the executive committee assured six weeks ago that the cigarette tax was certain of passage, the law becomes effective this week without the tax stamps delivered. Frey insisted on waiting until passage to arrange for purchasing the stamps. . . . KEEP US OUT OF WAR

Editor Post-Crescent—I just finished reading your editorial in tonight's Crescent, entitled "What We Call A Punk Neutrality."

You base your faith on International Law, as against home-made Neutrality. You base your argument against the will of the people expressed in the Neutrality law, in favor of the binding force of a "League of Nations."

It is quite evident by now that both President Roosevelt and Sec. Hull have served upon it as their purpose to bend the will of the people by means of a technicality, International Law.

Not arguing against international honor, yet insisting upon recognition for the will of the people as expressed by Congress, I pray that you raise your voice for sanity. If you are sure that lies by way of International Law, then insist that we obey that law in the matter of trade. Insist that we make it unlawful to deal in machines of death in our trade with nations everywhere.

The opinion of America is against war. The hope of the common man is that we shall stay out of this mess. We should have learned by now—and we have, that Washington was right in warning us against foreign entanglements.

Your sane attitude in respect to neutrality was quite evident in previous editorials. Don't spoil that attitude. Instead of playing into the hands of willful war-mongers, and thereby committing homicide, as you consent to drawing our boys and young men into another slaughter, raise your voice strongly against war and all its machinations. Fight against commerce in war materials.

Constructively, won't you plead for Christian forbearance, and love to all mankind, as you might suggest

It's Too Bad When Government Has to Handle State's Crime

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York—If my understanding of the charge against Seymour Weiss is correct, this prosecution was almost as great an indignity to the law and the prestige of government as the offense from which it arose. Weiss was Huey Long's treasurer, who, once upon a time, in effect, threatened to slap the ears off an accredited representative of the United States senate and made the senate curl up and quit. He was Huey's manhood—an impudent, arrogant political racketeer who gave the kingfish physical courage in moments of stress and in turn received from Huey the protection of a crooked political machine for operations the nature of which will be revealed in further trials in New Orleans. It was not because the senate was afraid of Weiss that the membership of that august body suffered him to flout its authority and dignity personified by General Ansell during an investigation of the fraudulent election of a colleague from Louisiana. The senators were afraid to tangle with Huey, whose machine had performed the election fraud, and Weiss realized that under Huey's protection he had nothing to fear from the senate.

Pegler

Weiss has now been sentenced to 30 months in prison for using the mails to defraud—a federal charge—in connection with a larcenous transaction which has enriched the criminal patios with the picturesque term, "double-dip." He and other surviving heirs of the Long machine sold a hotel property, including furnishings, to the state of Louisiana for a certain price and then sold the same furnishings again to the state in a separate transaction. The fraud itself was a state offense and no concern of the federal department of justice, and the use of the mails in its completion was incidental, inadvertent and unimportant. But once the thievery of the machine had been revealed by independent journalistic enterprise Frank Murphy intervened, or intruded, and discovered that in the course of banking routine certain documents in the double-dip had been sent by mail. This gave him a technical charge against a group of rogue politicians who, until that time, had been on useful and congenial terms with the New Deal but who now, with the disclosures in the press, were not merely useless but an embarrassment. It is hard to believe that Mr. Murphy, though new to his job, was entirely surprised to learn that the Louisiana machine was crooked, for even if his knowledge of democratic politics didn't include a smattering of it be held that Louisiana and any other state that he care to name is incapable of minding its own affairs. This prosecution on the minor charge seriously jeopardizes the only charge that really matters, it tends to degrade still further rather than to reform the state courts, and it gives encouragement to the belief of thieving politicians, such as Pendergast of Kansas City, that they can rob and debauch communities and persecute citizens for years and get off with a kick in the pants from a federal court when, by rights, they ought to hang. If Weiss defrauded the state—and it follows that fraud was shown in proving him guilty of using the mails for that purpose—that was Louisiana's headache, and if Louisiana wants to quit being a state and become a ward of the federal government that should be done in the regular order of business, not by intrusion.

The Weiss prosecution smacks of trickery, and it may be observed that if a man were to escape, rather than incur punishment for a serious crime on a technicality as cute and trifling as the one on which he was convicted the public would call his lawyer a shyster.

Mrs. Anna Kuehl Dies At Home at Fremont

Fremont — Mrs. Anna Kuehl, 88, a resident of the village of Fremont for 40 years, died at her home early Sunday morning after a lingering illness. She was born April 23, 1851, in Germany and came with her parents to this country when she was six years old. The family settled at Black Wolf, Winnebago county. She lived there until her marriage to Carl Kuehl, 61 years ago. The couple lived on a farm in the town of Fremont for 21 years before coming to the present home. Her husband died 15 years ago. She was a member of Hope Reformed church town of Wolf River for many years. Surviving is a niece Mrs. John Hickman, Wausau.

County Bar Wants Federal Court to Meet in This Area

Attorneys Vote to Seek Sessions for Oshkosh, Green Bay

The Outagamie County Bar association at a meeting Monday noon unanimously voted to seek terms of the United States district court for Oshkosh and Green Bay. Judge F. Ryan Duffy is judge of the court for the eastern district of Wisconsin.

County attorneys contend that the cost of litigation arising in the Fox River valley and north of Green Bay is almost prohibitive in many cases especially where persons from the northern section of the state are compelled to pay for transportation of witnesses to Milwaukee and for other necessary expenses.

The bar association maintains that congress intended to make the cost of trials in federal courts within the reach of the public by providing for court sessions within the territory in which litigation arises and by naming Milwaukee, Oshkosh and Green Bay for court sessions.

The attorneys pointed out that the federal statutes provide that "terms of district court for the eastern district of Wisconsin be held at Milwaukee on the first Monday in January and October; at Oshkosh on the second Tuesday in June; and at Green Bay on the first Tuesday in April.

Extra Tricks Are Valuable In Duplicate

BY ELY CULBERTSON
Playing duplicate bridge, a declarer must not allow himself to become elated when he discovers that he is about to bring home his contract. There may be an extra trick lurking in the bushes which for match-point purposes, is almost as valuable as the contract itself. In today's hand declarer was so pleased to drop a certain vital jack and fulfill his contract that he played foolishly thereafter.

The bidding:
South West North East
1 heart Pass 1 spade Pass
2 no trump Pass 2 diamonds Pass
3 no trump Pass 3 diamonds Pass

South's second bid (one no trump) is worthy of note. Undoubtedly South's four honor tricks made this an undebated bid, nevertheless, it was the best action available at that point. There are times in the preliminary stages of bidding when it is wise to understate one's values, when the only alternative is to overstate them. In this case South had to choose between a one and a two no trump rebid. The former, as noted, would not express South's four honor tricks, but the latter would be erring even farther in the other direction. The reasoning which dictated South's choice was perfectly sound: If North could not make another bid over one no trump there hardly could be a good play for game. A glance at the North hand confirms this reasoning. Surely, with all that North held, it would have been inexcusable for him to pass, and his two diamond bid was the logical second response. Yet, despite all he held, declarer needed a certain amount of luck to bring home his contract.

West, whose only suit length was in the opponents' bid suit, decided to open a low club. Declarer properly put up the ten, hoping the lead was from the Q-J. But East played the queen and declarer won with the ace. A low diamond was led to the queen. East won and reentered his original fourth best club. Declarer ducked; West won and returned the jack. Declarer now led another low diamond to the ace, discovering West's void, and picked up East's diamond ten on the return. With three diamond and two club tricks home, declarer would need all four of his hearts to insure the contract and felt very dubious about the drop of the jack. But neither did he feel like "breaking" the spade suit in an attempt to guess the position of the adverse honors, so he decided to try for the drop of the jack. He led low to the queen and back to his ace, joyfully smothering East's jack, then cashed his two remaining hearts. East had discarded two clubs on declarer's last two hearts. Now, with only two cards left in all hands, declarer led a spade and, when West played low, put in dummy's jack without a second's thought. East pointed on the trick with the queen and returned a spade to his partner's ace.

Of course it always is nice to bring home a contract, but at match-point duplicate extra tricks are nice, too. At the twelfth trick, when declarer played the spade to ward dummy and put in the jack, he was making a play that had absolutely nothing to gain and everything to lose. Consider if East had had the spade ace, declarer would have had no chance to make a spade trick, because in that case East merely would have held on to a good club and blanked the spade ace. Surely he would not throw away an established club trick to keep the ace and a low spade. Thus, the only chance was to find the spade ace in West's hand, where it actually was, and to put up the spade king for the extra trick. Incidentally, this extra trick would have given declarer an additional three match-points, which are hardly to be sneezed at in the average duplicate game.

Living With In-Laws Lessens Chances for Marital Success

BY DOROTHY DIX

Dear Miss Dix—If I marry the man to whom I am engaged and whom I love dearly I will have to go to live with his mother and sister. What chance of peace, happiness and harmony will there be in such an arrangement? The house is a large one. Would that make the risk any less, provided the mother-in-law remains the autocrat of the family? I am a business girl and expect to continue with my present job after marriage. That would help, of course, but I am wondering if any happiness could survive the tense atmosphere which usually accompanies this mixture of in-laws in a home? Out of your long experience with such marriages can you give me any tip? ALICE.

Answer:
When a young couple get married it immeasurably increases their chances of making a success of their marriage to be able to set up their home and go to live by themselves. The first years of marriage are a struggle with many dangers. Two strangers are getting acquainted with each other and are finding faults and flaws that neither suspected that the other had concealed about his or her person. The man is going through the painful ordeal of finding how much it costs to support a family than he thought it would. The girl is learning how to cook and keep house, with disastrous results to the food, her hands and her husband's digestion.

There are a million things to quarrel over and they find them every one. If they are alone they fight it out and it ends by the husband calling himself a brute and the bride weeping on his breast and kisses and reconciliations, and no harm is done. But if there are relatives around cheering them on from the sidelines, bidding the man not to let his wife heckle him and urging the girl not to become a human doormat, husbands and wives are alienated from each other and feuds started that often end in the divorce courts.

Besides, the presence of an in-law in the house deprives the husband and wife of all privacy and keeps them from ever getting as close together in their lives as they would if they were alone. They can't say foolish little things to each other, or give each other caresses if Mother is sitting around with a cold and critical eye upon them. Nor can they talk over their affairs with her listening in. And so the habit of confidence between them is destroyed.

For these and a thousand other reasons a young couple should start their housekeeping in a pension box, if it is the best they can afford, rather than go to live with their in-laws. It would give them a better start for happiness and it would save the innumerable in-law quarrels that embitter so many lives.

Sometimes, however, the young couple are compelled by circumstances to live with their in-laws. In that case it is far better to let the mother-in-law be the queen bee and for the daughter-in-law to regard herself as just a guest in the house and take no part in its management. Old women are set in their ways and for a daughter-in-law to interfere with them or try to change them is simply to ask for trouble. Also, all old people believe themselves possessed of inspired wisdom and that their ways and tastes and opinion are the only ones that are infallible.

Of course, the young have a fair conceit of themselves, too, and it isn't easy for a modern young woman to subscribe to her mother-in-law's views, but doing so is virtually the price of peace between them if they have to dwell under the same roof. In your particular case, Alice, the problem of going to live with in-laws is endangered by there being a sister-in-law also. This doubles the hazard you are taking and you should be very certain that the man you are going to marry is worth the price you will have to pay for him. But perhaps he is, and you will be happier with having him even with your dream of having a home of your own gone aglimmering, than you would be without him.

But if you do marry him, stick to your job. The more you are out of the house the less danger there will be of friction. And don't forget that there ARE mothers-in-law and daughters-in-law who live together in peace and harmony and love and enjoy each other. After all, you can get along with any

CASE RECORDS OF A PSYCHOLOGIST

By Dr. George W. Crane
Psychologist, Northwestern University

Men and women will try to dress properly and artistically, but often fail to clothe their thoughts in charming apparel. Sloven speech and vulgarly might properly be termed dandruff of the brain. A girl who wouldn't think of wearing an old Mother Hubbard to a formal party, may parade her thoughts in equally unattractive garb and apparently wonder why she loses her boy friends.

CASE O-150: Jerome T., aged 25, is copy writer in an advertising agency. "I'm anxious to have you look at some of our new lay-outs," he informed me, and of course I was very glad to see them, especially since I have been teaching courses in advertising and selling for many years.

You will observe, however, that Jerome illustrates a common misuse of the word "anxious." He really meant to say that he was "eager" or "desirous" of having me pass judgment on his ads.

While I do not wish to appear petty or picayune about this matter of a good vocabulary, I do wish to point out the fact that words possess distinctive personalities. Sometimes words are so much alike that they are verbal "twins," in which case we call them synonyms. In this case, they may be entirely opposite in meaning, whereupon we designate them as antonyms. But synonyms have shades of meaning which are not exactly alike. "Sharp" and "keen" are synonyms, whereas "sharp" and "dull" are antonyms.

How to Clothe Your Thoughts
People will often spend large sums of money trying to clothe their ideas attractively, but fail to dress up their thoughts in proper words and phrases suitable to the time and place.

Many men and women have lost social prestige, salary increases and customers or clients, simply because their ideas have been clothed in threadbare, smutty or trite verbal costumes.

"Isn't it a swell picture? Ain't this cute as Christmas? Gee, but that's a swell orchestra. We could have a swell time if we had the dough to live at swell joints like that one."

Even college graduates will parade their fraternity or sorority pins and show off their honors, as a college lettered sport sweater, while their language is often a disgrace to a truly educated person.

Are Your Words in Style?
In his excellent volume on advertising copy, G. B. Hotchkiss has effectively brought out the personality distinctions between words which are classified as synonyms. Notice the following quotation:

"We can speak of a bunch of flowers, but a bunch of girls is a bevy; a bevy of elephants is a herd; a herd of thieves is a gang; a gang of angels is a host; a host of wolves is a pack; a pack of geese is a flock; a flock of acrobats is a troupe; a troupe of bees is a Jim as soon as you laid eyes on him?" This has upset me a great deal, because I was only trying to make him feel welcomed—every one was so stiff to him. Will you please tell me if it was wrong for me to call him Jim?

Answer: Of course it wasn't! It must have made him feel very much of an outsider to be called Mister by his new family-in-law. Probably the reason he didn't call you by your first name is that he may not have been sure who you were. If you had said, "I'm Molly, Fred's wife—or something like that—it would have given him his cue."

A New Badness
Dear Mrs. Post: The other day at our bridge club our hostess did something that was terribly impolite. At least it seemed that way to me, and I said, "I'd like to know what Mrs. Post would say about this?" So now I'm writing to ask you just what you do think about this. The hostess gave herself her own bridge prize! The club was meeting at her house, you see, and she's a good player, I must admit. When she added up our scores she found that hers was the highest. Then she sort of laughed and said, "Well, I seem to have to give myself that prize," and what's more she did. It was all wrapped up in tissue paper and ribbon, lying on the table and if she didn't open it up and say how pretty it was and pass it around for us to see, for all the world as if she were a stranger and that someone else had given it to her.

Answer: It is very seldom that I hear of a brand-new detail of behavior, but never have I heard of this before! I have heard of the hostess who serves herself first, but I've never heard of the hostess who presents herself with a prize. It is really unbelievable! Properly she should not have counted her score at all. The prize should have gone to whichever of her guests had the highest score. Her own score should never have been counted. Or if she counted it afterwards, just to know where she had stood, she should have kept it to herself.

Mrs. Post is sorry she can no longer answer personal letters. She is glad however to have many printed slips on a variety of subjects to give to her readers. Today's slip is "Travel by Train." Be sure to send a three-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Mrs. Post, in care of this paper, P. O. Box 150, Times Square Station, New York, N. Y.

Children are Not Trained for Today, but for Days to Come

BY ANGELO PATRI

"I hate to send a child to bed in an unhappy mood, or off to school in the morning in bad temper, but what am I to do when that child wants to do what I believe is not good for him?"

Your duty, of course, and let the moods wear themselves out. Children cannot rear themselves in sanity and safety. That is why they have parents and teachers, homes and schools and the safeguards society places about its children and Youth. We have to hold fast to what we believe is good for a child when he does not know his own good. We train him toward that end through useful experiences, but train him we must.

"No, no, Roger. It is your bedtime. Don't turn on the radio. I know, but that program is not the right kind for a boy on his way to bed. No, I say. Go right ahead to bed."

Roger puts up a fight. He cries loudly, and bewails his hard fate. Other boys can do this, so why can't he? He is the only boy so badly treated in all this world. He hopes that father, "Grammy" or some body, will come to his help. Nobody does, if the family know their business, and he goes to bed in a temper.

That puts a damper on the family spirit. Nobody enjoys hearing a child lament his hard fate. His mistaken grief affects the whole family. It is a rare household in which someone does not express a doubt about the wisdom of this unhappy end to a child's day. "He'll forget it anyway, as soon as it is turned off, and go to bed happy. Isn't it as bad for him to go to bed like that as to be scared by the radio program?"

No, it isn't. He will learn, by experience a valuable lesson that he will apply all his life. When his father and mother tell him that he cannot have something he wants because it will harm him, he learns they mean it. That it is, in their opinion as harmful on Tuesday night as it was on Monday night, and they haven't changed their minds about it. And he will learn that his parents are strong enough to stand up against his tears and lamentations. That knowledge is going to do him a lot of good in many ways for years and years to come.

And more. He will learn that his wishes, his pleasures, are not the most important things in his life, or in the lives of other people. That will keep him from making serious mistakes later on, for which, when he is his mother's age, and in his father's shoes, he will be most grateful.

We do not train children for today, but for the days to come. We send them to bed on time so they may be strong twenty years from then. We feed them fruit and vegetables and milk and eggs and a little meat not so that they can be strong today only, but that they will be healthy active men and women when they most need to be. It is no fun for us to insist upon these things against a child's will, but it is often our duty, and we would be badly negligent to fail the children.

There is a happy medium between disregarding a child's happiness and giving him his own free will at all times. Sensible people understand that. Sometimes yes, sometimes no, depending on the child's best good always.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of the paper, enclosing a three-cent stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

roll and Barbara Stanwyck also measure up to par. This list of top Hollywood stars who are almost alike in physical proportions swells when we add Norma Shearer, Irene Dunne, Bette Davis, Shirley Ross, Martha Raye, Lana Turner, Ginger Rogers, Corinne Talcott.

Out of The Same Mold
Carefully selected from every part of the country in a search for beauty, are the seven stars of tomorrow who are so similar in weight and measurements that they are almost identical. Blondes and brunettes are apparently equally distributed so you will not have to worry about the color of your hair. Here they are!

Patricia Morison, brunette measures 5 feet 5 inches. Weighs 118 pounds.
Janice Logan, blonde, is 5 feet 5 inches, weighs 118 pounds.
Joyce Mathews, blonde, is identical in height but tips the beam at 117 pounds.

Muriel Angelus is another of the lucky girls five feet five but weighing only 113 pounds.
Susan Hayward, comely red-head, measures five feet 4 inches and scales 117 pounds.
Evelyn Keyes, a blonde, also measures 5 feet 4 inches and weighs 113 pounds.

The seventh is Ellen Drew, and as she is on vacation her exact measurements could not be had, but you may bet they fall within the charmed figures!

Editor's Note
If you are taller or shorter than five-foot-five you cannot do a thing about it, excepting to wear high or low heels.

If you are as young as the girls mentioned above and you weigh more than 120 pounds—you can do lots about it!

Personally I believe the comfortable, healthy weight for that age group (15 to 19), and that height, is 122 pounds.

If you are much overweight send a self-addressed, stamped (3-cent) envelope for my suggestions on how to reduce. Tell me where you are too oversized and I'll give you exercises. Exercise—Young girls should exercise to slimmness—not diet strenuously. Write me care of this paper.

followed and, bowing to the gentlemen, she led the ladies back to the drawing-room.

"I'll be darned!" Tony murmured into Cecily's ear. "They're really going to stay to have port and cigars! Do you suppose if I have a cigar, I'll turn the Brewsters over in their graves?"

Lady Rathbone halted, blocking the girl's way. "Excuse me," she murmured and went back to the dining-room.

Curious, Tony stared after her. "Undoubtedly gone back to tell His Lordship to go easy on the port," she commented.

The ladies had cigars, ashtrays having appeared out of thin air. Cecily, blowing smoke slowly, suddenly felt all her party spirit evaporate. She was bored, wishing she was at home, or that she had some knitting to do. Her eye traveled to the ornate clock on the mantel. Only a half-hour to ten and then, thank goodness, the party would be over. It was so utterly lacking in animation. Her lady's glance went from chair to chair, to the sofa where her aunt and Lady Rathbone were talking together.

His Lordship came in, bent over to speak to his wife.

"Excuse me," Cecily heard Lady Rathbone murmur. "I must go upstairs. I have asked Cecil to get something for me and he can't find it."

It seemed but a moment when she reappeared in the doorway, her face white. "Mrs. Brewster, may I speak to you for a moment?"

Mrs. Brewster was saying, "Dear Lady Rathbone, are you quite sure?"

Then Mrs. Brewster, turning back to the room, said in a very clear voice, "Lady Rathbone has just a valuable pin."

"I haven't lost it! I left it in my jewel box on my bureau. I opened the box before lunch and took out the things that I am wearing. The pin was there then. It is gone now."

Lady Rathbone looked even more

BOLERO-EFFECT

BY ANNE ADAMS

What fun to know that yours is the best-dressed child in the neighborhood—and that you're made every slither yourself! This Little dress by Anne Adams, Pattern 4259, takes a surprisingly short time to sew with the Sewing Instructor's class advice. A novel bolero-effect is given by making a printed top in contrast of a plain skirt, with a button-trimmed panel extending from the neck to join the front skirt panel in one easy piece. The frock looks equally smart all in one fabric, with longer or short sleeves. Well-cut bloomers or panties are included.

Pattern 4259 is available in children's sizes 2, 4, 6, 8 and 10. Size 6, short sleeve dress, takes 1 1/2 yards 35 inch fabric, 1/2 yard contrast and 1/2 yards ric-rac; long sleeve dress, 1 1/2 yards 54 inch fabric.

grim than when she smiled. Cecily thought, as well she might.

Mrs. Brewster laid her wrinkled hand on Lady Rathbone's arm. "Couldn't it be possible that your sleeve caught in the pin? Let us all look for it, I'm sure we'll find it. Will you describe it for us?"

"It is a sunburst design. There are forty diamonds surrounding a large central stone. There is a safety clasp and I'm quite certain."

Mrs. Brewster interrupted, tactfully suggesting that each of the ladies search an upstairs room. The men had come into the drawing room and Mrs. Brewster explained the situation to them, assigning them to the downstairs floor.

Tony, Gloria and Cecily drew the upstairs hall and the ladies' dressing room.

Gloria closed the door behind them. "Am I wrong?" she asked, old lady suggesting that her pin has been stolen."

"Right! Quite right," Tony agreed. "And it looks as though our hostess were pretty much annoyed about it. Which one of us will do the noble thing and confess and get the agony over?"

Cecily was horrified. "She can't think any one of us would steal her pin!"

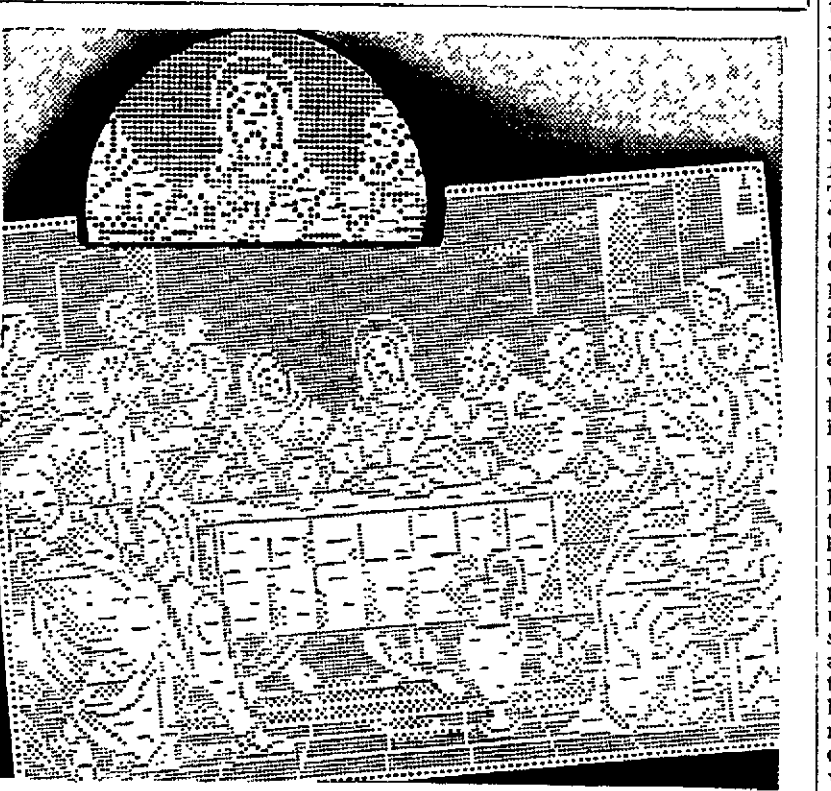

"She's quite sure it was stolen. Perhaps one of the servants," Tony ventured.

Gloria looked up from her position on all-fours on the floor. "I'm sure Mrs. Brewster would be ready to suspect Mother's taking it rather than one of her servants. She only has four or five years' experience."

"They wouldn't be likely to embrace a life of crime at this late date. Most likely Lady Rathbone will find it pinned to her dress."

Beauty and You

—by PATRICIA LINDSAY

The movie-struck girl who measures five feet five inches and tips the scales between 113 and 118 pounds has the best chance to reach screen stardom—providing, of course, she has both beauty and talent.

These measurements are based on a survey which shows that the greatest stars on the screen today strike this successful average of physical proportions. And to corroborate the figures, the identical height and weight average was reached by seven young beauties just signed by Paramount Studio, who are to be launched towards stardom—providing, of course, she has both beauty and talent.

This uniformity of size reveals at least one success secret in the rapid climb to stardom of such big names as Claudette Colbert, Joan Crawford, Jeanette MacDonald, and Dorothy Lamour, Hedy Lamarr, Paulette Goddard, Madeleine Car-

Lady Rathbone, with her beautiful, slim neck, her startling way of smiling—showing huge teeth in a grim smile—was definitely of a genre not to appreciate Nathecz, Cecily thought.

Hoeffel Will File Brief in Dispute Over Council Wage

Aldermen Seeking to Have Reduction in Salaries Restored

City Attorney Harry P. Hoeffel said today that he would file a brief tomorrow on the case in which 18 aldermen are seeking to determine the legality of the referendum setting their wages at $250 a month.

Hoeffel's action follows an order from Municipal Judge Thomas H. Ryan for attorneys representing both sides of the salary controversy to file briefs.

The suit for restoration of a $250 wage cut—half of their original salary of $500—was started by Appleton's 18 aldermen after electors last April voted by a 3 to 1 margin to reduce council salaries.

Defendants in the action are Carl J. Becher, city clerk, and Joseph A. Kox, city treasurer. The defendants will ask the court to uphold the legality of the referendum.

The dispute arose when the new council was seated and aldermen refused to accept checks on the basis of a $250 annual salary. Some of the aldermen, however, have accepted salary checks.

The dispute involves the question of whether citizens can set the salaries of aldermen by referendum.

Two Appleton Men Named Officers of State Meat Dealers

Two Appleton men were named officers of the Wisconsin State association of Retail Meat Dealers at the closing session of a 2-day convention in Wausau Monday afternoon.

Elmer Rehbein was elected fourth vice president and Antone Gieblis was elected inner guard. The new president is Albert Strauss of Racine.

Rehbein spoke on "Facts and Figures in the Retail Meat Industry" Sunday afternoon. He analyzed meat costs and stressed the importance of figuring shrinkage in computing these costs. He pointed out that where a customer asks for the removal of fat or tallow from a meat cut a higher price must be asked per pound for the trimmed meat.

Others from Appleton who attended the convention were Herbert Boettcher, John Bonini and George Steidl.

Inquest Date Is Set in Death of Hortonville Man

Driver of Death Car Pleads Innocent of Reckless Driving

An inquest in the death of Gustave Gall, 67, Hortonville, who was fatally injured when the car in which he was riding struck a tree on Highway 45 last Thursday, will be held at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon at the New London city hall.

Arthur Hoffman, town of Hortonville, driver of the automobile, this morning pleaded not guilty of reckless driving when he was arraigned before Judge Thomas H. Ryan in municipal court. His trial was set for 9 o'clock Friday morning. Oct. 6 He furnished a bond of $500.

Gall suffered a lacerated jugular vein and died Thursday evening at the New London hospital from loss of blood. The accident occurred when Hoffman attempted to turn south into the driveway of his home. Hoffman and his wife suffered fractured ribs and were taken to the New London hospital.

The inquest was called this morning by District Attorney Raymond P. Dohr. Jurors drawn from the Third ward, New London, are A. G. Van Alstine, William Kalwitz, Lester Sawall, Ethelmann Furman, Martin Beckman and Clarence Guthrie.

Tax on Cigaretts in Effect at Midnight

Appleton stores will be adding the new state tax to the price of their cigarettes starting tomorrow morning.

The new levy goes into effect at midnight tonight. Questioned as to how the tax will be tallied and the collections reported, a merchant reported this morning that "our latest information is that we'll have to submit inventories of our cigarettes to the tax commission." He said he has received little specific information on how the tax will be administered.

Fair and Cooler Weather Forecast

Mercury continues to move in pleasant range in Appleton vicinity.

As it is to atone for the unprecedented heat wave of last week, Mother Nature has been brewing up some ideal weather the last few days and it is expected to continue tonight and Wednesday with slightly cooler temperatures tomorrow.

Moving in an agreeable range, the mercury rose to 74 degrees early this afternoon, according to the thermometer on the roof of the Post-Crescent building. Records at the power plant of the Wisconsin Michigan Power company show highest and lowest temperatures during the 24-hour period preceding 9 o'clock this morning as 74 degrees at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon and 51 degrees at 6 o'clock this morning.

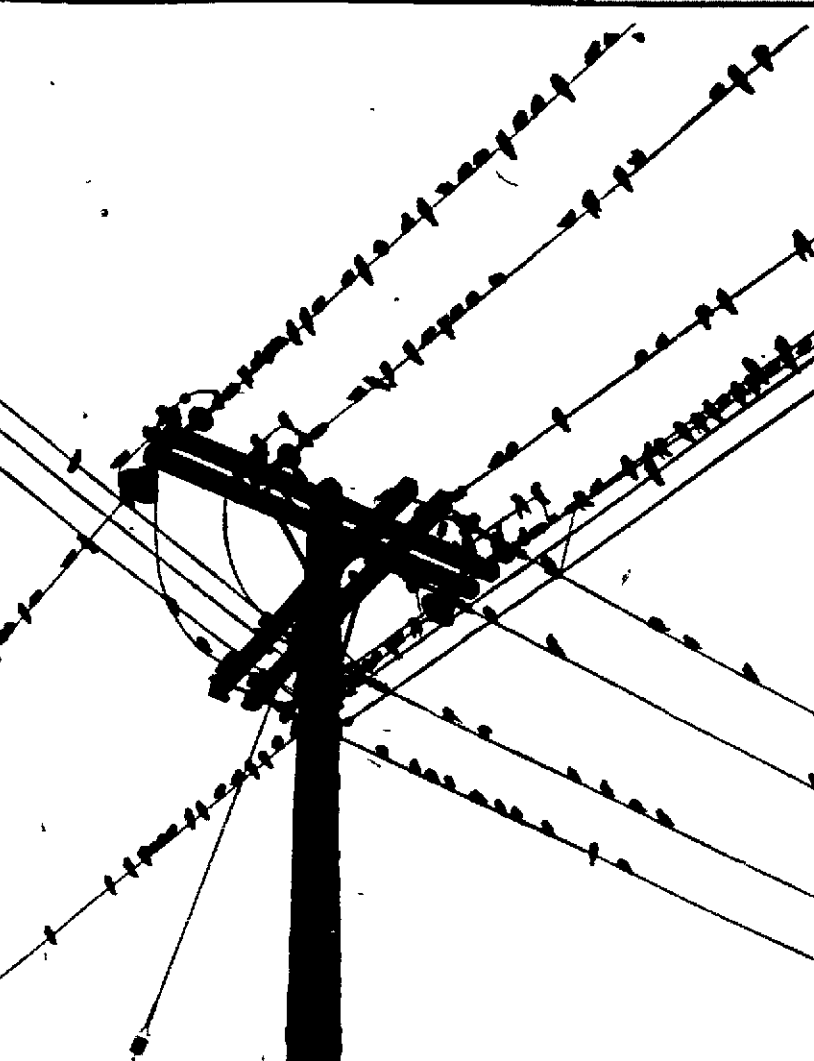

Maximum and minimum marks reported in the nation yesterday at official weather stations were 103 degrees at Los Angeles, Calif., and 40 degrees at Yellowstone, according to the Associated Press.

Highlights of Adolf Hitler Address to People at Danzig

Danzig—(P)—Here are some highlights from Adolf Hitler's speech today:

I have no war aims against either England or France. I have always endeavored to bring about friendly relations.

It will not be dependent upon us if war lasts that long (three years, as the British have asserted). If it should last three years the word "capitulation" will not stand at its end nor will it stand at the end of the fourth, fifth, sixth or seventh year.

They (Britain and France) are not facing the Germany of Bethmann-Hollweg (German chancellor when the first World war began), but a Germany of Friedrich time (meaning Frederick the Great).

I wanted to achieve real friendship... but if England today thinks it is necessary to make war on Germany it will be disappointed.

Poland never again will rise in the form it assumed under the Versailles treaty. Not only Germany guarantees this but also Russia.

To the last breath we will stand for greater Germany and peoples of Germany.

Committee Votes To Improve Road, Seek Bridge Aid

Sets Aside Gasoline Tax Money to Fix Highway 45

The Outagamie county highway committee yesterday unanimously voted to set aside the county 1940 allotment from the state gasoline tax to improve State Trunk 45 from Greenville to New London.

D. F. Culbertson, division engineer for the state highway department, and L. W. Empey, assistant engineer, attended the meeting to discuss the improvement. Arnold J. Krueger, county highway commissioner, said the present concrete highway probably will be covered with black top.

The committee voted to apply for federal aid for the construction of bridges to replace the deteriorated Coffey bridge on County Trunk F and the Stephenville bridge on County Trunk S. The Coffey bridge crosses the Embarras river while the one at Stephenville bridges the Wolf river.

Krueger said both are badly needed in the county to facilitate travel and snow removal activities in Outagamie county. The bridges are narrow and are not safe for heavy equipment, he said. Neither bridge now is used to carry county equipment, Krueger stated.

The Standard Oil company of Appleton was given the contract to furnish the county with 10,000-gallon tank car of diesel fuel oil on a low bid of $3,561. The only other bid was offered by L. L. Doerflinger, Appleton.

The recently completed Shiocton bridge in the town of Cicero was accepted by the committee. The bridge was built at an approximate cost of $8,000 by Peter Rasmussen and Son Construction company of Oshkosh. It was a joint county and town project.

Chairman, H. D. Purdy, Dr. William G. Keller, E. W. Bassett, Dr. Albert J. Gloss, O. R. Kloehn, Richard Wilson, Julius O. Kopplin and Fred Heinritz. The forum committee is scheduled to meet at 4:30 Thursday afternoon at the office of Kenneth H. Corbett, secretary of the chamber.

Advertising Club to Hear Talk by Watson

L. R. Watson, sales manager of Tuttle Press company, will speak at a meeting of the Appleton Advertising club Thursday noon in the Conway hotel. He will talk on sales promotion.

Issue Permits for Two New Dwellings in City

Ed Campbure and Son, contractors, have been issued permits for the construction of two new residences.

One house will be built at 1807 N. Superior street at a cost of $5,500. It will be 35 by 36 feet in size. The other will be constructed at 433 E. Parkway at an estimated cost of $5,000 and will measure 30 by 26 feet. Both dwellings will have garages.

Curb, Gutter Project Is Nearing Completion

WPA workmen are building curb and gutter on Appleton street from Wisconsin avenue to Brewster street and expect to finish the project this week. Operations then will be transferred to Winnebago street, between Morrison and Drew.

The Appleton street department yesterday oiled Harris street from Richmond street to Badger avenue.

Germany Has 'No War Intentions,' Hitler Asserts

and which he thought he would have difficulty explaining to his people.

"I cannot understand why Poland did not accept those proposals, and the German people today are happy they did not accept them."

Instead of accepting them, Hitler said, the Poles turned toward London.

He claimed that Polish newspapers published stories that the problem was not of Danzig, but one of boundaries and whether the Poles should defeat Germany in front of or "in back of Berlin."

As he continued his voice rose to the shrill pitch characterizing him in moments of excitement.

"The man who had spoken thusly," Hitler said, "was a Polish general who has deserted his army."

The Poles were told they could resist Germany, and if they were not strong enough they could in any case expect the help of others.

Scores British Leaders

Hitler said English statesmen like Churchill, Eden, Duff-Cooper and others always preached war.

"In September the state of affairs became impossible, and yet in the days of August I believed it was still possible to come to an understanding."

He said he went to Berlin and "waited and waited" and even worked out some new proposals, but "nothing happened except a general mobilization by Poland."

"For years I have been extremely patient," he went on. For years, Hitler asserted, he begged to change the state of affairs, but he knew "an end must come."

Poland Chose War

"Poland chose war, and the statesmen of the west told her that Germany was poorly equipped and that the German people, Hitler shouted.

"I am proud to be attacked by them. If they think they can alienate the German people from me they are wrong and stupid."

Boasts of 'Propaganda'

"I have not educated the German people in vain for the last 20 years."

The national socialist party has assumed the burden of carrying on the battle and it cannot be hurt by the German people, Hitler shouted.

"If they want to learn something about propaganda they should come to me to be taught," he said.

At this point Hitler had been speaking an hour.

"Since the war is going to last 'three years,' Hitler said he could only express sympathy for the French soldiers.

"If it should last that long the word 'surrender' would not be there," he continued.

"Nor at the end of the sixth or seventh year. The generation of today is not the generation of Bethmann-Hollweg."

If there are any people who are going to be split up, it won't be the German people, he said. "We will not be misled by the propaganda of others."

"We will fight as our adversaries will."

"One country claims to have a sea force which cannot be attacked, but before long we also shall have a sea force which cannot be attacked."

Promises Humane War

In principle, he added, Germany had carried through its determination not to attack women and children, but there were cases when the wounding and killing of non-combatants could not be avoided.

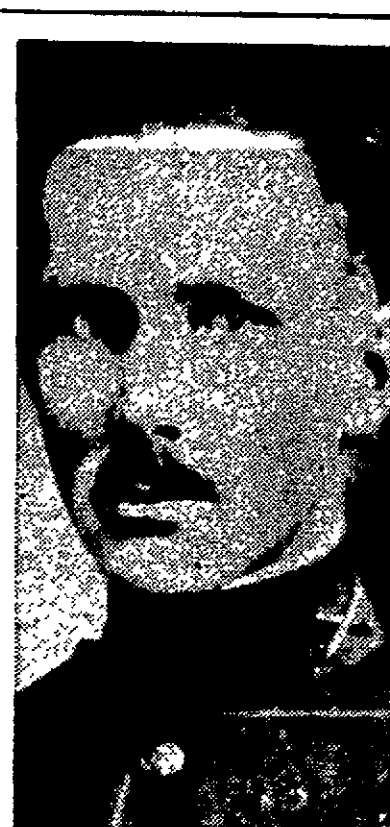

For the future, he promised Germany would be humane in its conduct of the war.

"We will act as others act toward us. England's objective is not only the German regime but also the German men and women and children."

"It has been said that Germany should be destroyed, and the first treaty of Versailles was enacted for that purpose. Possibly a second treaty would attempt the same thing."

"I wish to express my thanks to the German people. They have given us proofs of their courageous will."

The people's enthusiasm is an "enthusiasm of the soul," he said, and they would "conduct this war wanting to "achieve a lasting peace."

"We have no war intentions against either England or France," he asserted.

He tried to arrange and have friendly relations with Italy, he said, and succeeded, and tried to do the same thing with France.

"My offers to England are known, they were refused, and England thinks she must have war with Germany. I can only reply this: Poland will never arise as it was arranged in the treaty of Versailles."

"Now the real cause of the war must be told to everybody. First it was Poland. Then it was the German regime and even I had the honor of being named."

Any German regime approved by Churchill, Eden, Duff-Cooper and others would be intolerable to the German people, Hitler shouted.

"I am proud to be attacked by them. If they think they can alienate the German people from me they are wrong and stupid."

Republicans Will Chart 1940 Plans

First Fall Meeting to be Held Friday Night At Courthouse

Plans for the 1940 Republican campaign will be charted at the first fall meeting of Outagamie county Republicans at 8 o'clock Friday evening at the county courthouse.

Dr. C. L. Kolb, chairman of the Republican committee, will preside at the meeting at which a report of the activities during the last eight months will be heard.

Senator Mike Mack, Shiocton, Assemblyman Mark S. Catlin, Jr., Appleton, and Assemblyman William J. Gantner, Kaukauna, will be at the meeting to discuss state legislation. Senator Fred Fisher, Waupaca, also has been invited to the meeting.

The 1940 campaign is expected to get under way within the next month, Kolb said. Members of the committee, Republican precinct committeemen, election workers and any others interested in what the Republican party is doing, have been invited to the meeting.

Reserve Officers to Report on Training

Reports on summer training will feature the meeting of Appleton chapter of the Reserve Officers' association of the United States Wednesday evening at Hotel Appleton. There will be a dinner at 6:30 with the meeting starting at 7:30. Among the officers reporting will be Major Helm Hussner who spent his tour of duty at the Aberdeen, Md., proving grounds, and members of the 423rd Infantry (Light Tank) who received training with tanks at Fort Snelling, Minn. The meeting is the first of the 1939-40 season.

Observe Anniversary Of U. S. Constitution

Appleton High school social science classes Monday observed the 152nd anniversary of the signing of the United States constitution.

Programs in the various groups included lecture and class discussion and student prepared programs. The classes considered the conditions incident to the making of the constitution, characteristics of the American document, privileges which are enjoyed under it and the future of the constitution in a world at war.

A more detailed study of the constitution is made by all seniors of the high school as a regular unit in the American history course.

Two are Fined Under Parking Ordinances

Two persons were fined for parking in violation of the Appleton city ordinances by Judge Thomas H. Ryan in municipal court Monday afternoon.

William Gamcke, 1008 N. Appleton street, paid a fine of $1 and costs for overtime parking in a 90-minute area and Marie Bachman, 309 N. Outagamie street, paid a fine of $1 and costs for overtime parking in a 60-minute area.

It Is Said--

Workmen who have been toiling up the paint and some of the masonry work on the Appleton post office drew a fairly good gate yesterday afternoon.

One of the men was hoisted up the front of the building via a pulley, operated by his fellow workers. Passersby lingered to watch the ascent and passing drivers slowed down and stared.

Traveler Tells of Europe Preceding Outbreak of War

Oshkosh Pastor Is Speaker at Meeting of Menasha Lions

Menasha — Conditions in Europe preceding the outbreak of the war were described by the Rev. James A. Daum of Oshkosh at the Monday noon luncheon meeting of the Menasha Lions club at Hotel Menasha. Mr. and Mrs. Daum returned to this country the day before war was declared after touring in 10 countries of Europe.

"One sight of the broad expanse of open scenery in Wisconsin is better than all of the castles and old cathedrals of Europe," the speaker declared. He warned the club members that the task ahead is to keep America Christian and urged them to "stick to the faith of our fathers so that we may enjoy peace, prosperity and liberty."

The English people did not expect war at present, according to the consensus of opinion, but were preparing for the emergency since late September. In Edinburgh the minister watched airplane maneuvers as spotlights kept fingers of light on airplanes playing the role of attacking bombers at 1 and 2 o'clock in the morning.

Lights Extinguished

At Lincoln, England, the couple experienced a black-out in which all lights were extinguished except for dim blue bulbs and even then windows and openings were covered. Those automobiles which did move about had lights which seemed like candles. At Lincoln also the air raid sirens sounded and there was a bomb explosion.

Mr. Daum found out that it was only a dummy bomb but the ambulance drove up and took care of pretended victims and others hurried to bomb-proof shelters as the English practiced for an invasion. The minister took a number of pictures, including one which showed an old Roman wall, perhaps 1,800 years old, next to a modern concrete bomb shelter.

Throughout England there were planes, soldiers and dugouts. When the couple visited a section that country was celebrating the anniversary of its freedom from Holland 110 years before. Bands and soldiers were everywhere.

The speaker emphasized that he was not speaking with any hatred or ill-will and also emphasized that the people of Europe had no antagonism against the German people.

"The friction is not between the German people and Britain but between the Hitler government and Britain."

Material Progress

Germany was described as "materially the most progressive country in Europe" by the speaker who declared it was far ahead of the other countries he visited in Europe. There is much progress in roads, bridges, houses and railroads, and there is no unemployment. In fact, it often is difficult to get workers and permits to start construction. Physically the German nation also has developed and has made a fetish of strong bodies. The speaker described groups of 6-year-olds marching and drilling.

"Spiritually and morally, Germany has a pagan government, ruthless and inhuman," the speaker declared. He said that he could not tell all of the inhumanities he knew of and heard of. "It is a rule by force with no consideration and no mercy."

The church has been described to the workers who support Hitler strongly, as the oppressor of the people. There are German Christians who acknowledge that the state is God and there are the confessional Christians who deny the authority of the state. The confessional Christians receive no state aid while the other churches receive orders from the state and also receive state aid.

In France conditions were similar to England as preparations were made for war. The state glass windows were being removed from cathedrals for safety. A black-out was experienced there too.

$5 Fine Is Assessed For Reckless Driving

Menasha — John Harold, 23, route 1, Menasha, was fined $5 and costs when he pleaded guilty of reckless driving on arraignment before Justice of the Peace Ray J. Fink Monday night.

Harold was arrested by Menasha police Sunday night. The arrest was made after Harold went through the arterial stop sign on DePere street and swung wide to the left on Third street, very nearly striking the squad car, according to Police Chief Alex Slomski.

20 Menasha Students To Receive NYA Help

Menasha — The National Youth administration program again has been placed in operation at Menasha High school and will result in 20 students receiving approximately 20 students. Applications have been received and work has started.

The allotment for this year's work is $102 monthly for nine months. Students, in order to qualify, must be citizens of the United States between 16 and 24 years of age, must be taking three-fourths or more of the normal scholastic program and most need financial assistance.

The students will perform various duties about the school such as assisting teachers, checking equipment and checking in towels. The money earned from the NYA activity is sent directly to the students to be used for necessities.

Install New Officers Of Germania Society

Menasha — Officers of the Germania Benevolent society were installed at the regular meeting Monday night at the lodge hall. William Reimer was installed as the new president while Steve Heup was installed as vice president to succeed Reimer. Walter Brendendick was installed as the new trustee.

Relected officers who were installed last night were John Pack recording secretary, William G. Tuchscherer, financial secretary, and John Suess, treasurer. The other two members of the board of trustees are C. J. Oberweiser and F. C. Rippl.

The league is composed of 10 teams. They are Bergstrom Papers No. 1 and 2, Knights of Pythias No. 1 and 2, Hilton Agency, Quinn Bros, Valley Cleaners, Studebakers, Wisconsin Michigan Powers, and Reblitz Signs.

K-C EMPLOYE FOR 35 YEARS IS FETED AT DINNER

Neenah — Miss Anna Gram, shown above in the center, was guest of honor at an anniversary dinner at Hotel Menasha Monday evening as 68 girls from the office of Kimberly-Clark paid tribute to her thirty-five years of service with the corporation. Miss Gram is employed in the treasurer's department of the manufacturing concern today. She started work as switchboard operator and secretary. A gift was presented Miss Gram. Seated at Miss Gram's right is Mrs. Archina Wyse and on her left, Mrs. Ruth MacIntosh. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Mountaineer Thinks Its Up to Kentuckian to Shoot Hitler, Frontier Nursing Head Says

Neenah — "The latest news I bring you is that the Kentucky mountaineers don't believe Hitler will be taken care of until a Kentucky man goes over there and shoots him but they can't understand why it hasn't been done long ago," Mrs. Mary Breckenridge, head of the frontier nursing service at Wendover near Hyden, Ky., told more than 200 Neenah, Menasha and Appleton men and women assembled at North Shore Country club Monday evening. Mrs. Breckenridge's illustrated talk on frontier nursing was sponsored by the Twin City Visiting Nurse association.

In spite of the fact that there is only about one newspaper to every 150 families and one radio to every 500 families, these people know all the news of Europe by the grapevine system and a swift system it is, Mrs. Breckenridge continued.

Mrs. Breckenridge lauded the Visiting Nurse association for its work which "is based on actual bedside care of the sick. You are not talking, but doing things with your hands. You know you can't ignore a man with pneumonia and pass the family a pamphlet on fresh air. We haven't reached the time when birth, sickness and death can be eliminated."

Isolated People

Speaking directly about the people with whom she works, those descendants of an English line broken for 100 years by any migrations, who are more or less isolated from the rest of the world, Mrs. Breckenridge described their language which is more Chaucerian or Shakespearean than anywhere else in the world. She spoke of their pure ballads and folksongs, of their words for a bad man . . . pure wastings and sweepings; for a baby, the least one; for twilight, the edge of dark.

Their point of view and their philosophy is that of the eighteenth century American pioneer, she emphasized. While we do not understand the difference between a murder and a killing, they believe murder is terrible but a killing . . . well, a killing is one thing and a killed dead is another. It is the old duel idea which characterized the eighteenth century. Of kidnapping and racketeering they know nothing, that is quite new and civilized. The great crime in the mountains is stealing. A thief becomes a social outcast forever.

Mrs. Breckenridge spoke of her work in the Appalachian range which is an area about the size of New York with a rural population of six million. The region is remote, extremely arduous but it is inhabited by a sturdy, independent and fine stock. She discussed the hospital service, the outpost stations, the phone lines, which do come down quite frequently, and the work of the nurses who receive not only a registered nurse degree but a course in midwifery in England before coming to work in frontier nursing.

Ride Hard Trails

The nurses ride mules or horses along hard trails and over treacherous streams to help the sick. Mrs. Breckenridge was one of the investigators of the frontier nursing service 25 years ago when it was started.

Riding Club Will Make Plans for Paper Chase

Neenah — Winnebago Bit and Spur club will meet at 7:30 this evening for a business session and steak fry at the stables on the lake shore road. Plans for the paper chase at 7:30 Sunday morning will be discussed. Twenty members of the club rode to Appleton Sunday where they were guests of the Appleton Riding club at breakfast.

Those who made the trip were Virgil Nolmer, Mr. and Mrs. N. A. Calder, Marjane Jex, Elaine Gear, Truman Hawkins, Vernon Snyder, Marvin Hansen, Kenneth Abraham, June Oehlke, Jack Quayle, Viola Sperka, Margaret Brown, Jack Rasmussen, John Paulson, Harold Bachman, Margaret Rausch, Margaret Stuebs and Mary Higgins.

Methodist Board to Hold Open Meeting

Neenah — The official board of the First Methodist church will hold a special meeting at 7:30 Wednesday evening at the church. It will be an open meeting and all officers of church organizations will attend. The Rev. William A. Riggs is the new pastor.

RUBBISH WEDNESDAY

Menasha — Rubbish will be collected in the second district on Wednesday, according to H. O. Haugh, city health officer. The district includes Water street and the area up to, but not including, Second street.

Council to Purchase Property For Kimberly-Clark Bridge to Permit Neenah Plant Addition

Neenah — The city council last night authorized the purchase of a piece of property at a cost of $2,000 so that a bridge, more than 100 feet long, can be constructed from the end of Church street north across the canal to the Kimberly-Clark corporation's property. The bridge will permit the corporation to increase its manufacturing capacity by building a substantial addition to its Neenah plant.

The purchase will cover the land extending north beyond the end of Church street to the canal. The property is 56 feet wide, the width of the street, and from 40 to 48 feet deep.

The momentousness of the comparatively small purchase was emphasized by Mayor Edwin A. Kalfahs in his report to the council. He pointed out that this $2,000 will result in a tremendous benefit to the city.

The mayor pointed out the increase in employment resulting from the boost in the corporation's manufacturing capacity and in the building of the substantial addition to the plant. The bridge also will alleviate congestion of traffic on N. Commercial street, he said.

The council authorized the purchase of the land providing the Kimberly-Clark corporation carries out its proposed building program. It was pointed out that the owners of the property, the Winnebago Realty company, Milwaukee, would sell the property only under this condition. In fact, Mayor Kalfahs pointed out that it necessitated considerable effort on his part and that of City Attorney John W. O'Leary to influence the Milwaukee firm to sell to the city.

The Mayor's Communication

The mayor introduced the matter to the council by reading a communication from F. E. Sensenbrenner in which it was stated that to increase its manufacturing capacity by building a substantial addition to the plant, it would be necessary to have an outlet from Church street north across the south canal to the Kimberly-Clark property.

The bridge will be erected by the Kimberly-Clark corporation, and some of the traffic, which would be routed through N. Commercial street and which would include trucks and automobiles of employees, would go over the proposed bridge. The canal is over 100 feet wide at this point.

Wants Check in Lights

Contending that the city's street lighting system was inadequate, Alderman Carl Loehning proposed that a check be made of street lights to determine whether there is sufficient illumination.

Alderman Loehning contended that many of the lights, especially those suspended over intersections, weren't giving enough illumination. He said they were either dirty or needed replacing.

Upon suggestion of Mayor Kalfahs, City Clerk H. S. Zemlock was authorized to contact the Wisconsin Michigan Power company to obtain its cooperation in conducting an inspection.

Petitions for the installation of street lights at the east end of E. Forest avenue were referred to the utility committee, and installation of street lights on E. Doty avenue and Stevens street and Congress place and Stevens street was authorized.

$50 for Band

The council appropriated $50 to the Oriental band of the James P. Hawley post, American Legion, to help defray expenses of the band to attend the national Legion convention at Chicago Sept. 25 to 28.

A delegation appeared before the council to make the request for the appropriation. It was pointed out that the band is composed of 17 men and that it has taken part in three state conventions, having won first places in the novelty events at each convention. The cost of the trip will amount to $340, and $195 had been raised through a benefit baseball game and other donations. Besides advertising Neenah and Wisconsin, the band will help Milwaukee in its bid for the 1940 national convention.

Alderman Edward Schultz, chairman of the finance committee, reported that during the month the city had incurred 90 accounts amounting to $19,538.58.

A claim for backpay, amounting to $700, entered by Roy Casperson, former policeman, was disallowed. Upon the recommendation of the board of education, the council voted to place iron traffic signs on Harrison street in front of the McKinley school. The council voted to sell the men's bathhouse to the high bidder, Anton M. Brezinski, for $68, and rejected the bid of John Heigl for the sale of the women's bathhouse, and voted to advertise for new bids.

City Engineer A. G. Frunuske reported that construction of a sidewalk on the south side of the Adams street bridge would get underway this week. The bid of the Nixon Fuel company of $7.50 a ton for a carload of coal was accepted.

Sullivan Will Speak At Meeting of Knights

Menasha — William T. Sullivan of Kaukauna will be the speaker at the meeting of Nicolet council No. 1838, Knights of Columbus, Thursday night at the club rooms. Refreshments will be served after the meeting.

A "Landing day" program is being planned for the second meeting in October to celebrate the landing of Columbus in America. A dance also is being planned by the council for the near future.

A retreat from Friday evening, Sept. 29, to Sunday afternoon, Oct. 1, will be sponsored by Nicolet council at the Monte Alverno retreat house at Appleton. The retreat is open to all members of the Knights of Columbus.

Bluejays Begin Drills for First Conference Game

Kaukauna Gridders to Invade Butte des Morts Field Friday Night

Menasha — The Menasha High school football squad Monday started preparing for the opening of the conference season Friday night when Kaukauna, 1938 champions of the Northeastern Wisconsin conference, invades Butte des Morts field.

Coach N. A. Calder has scheduled work and plenty of it for the fore part of this week. The Jay gridders will get both contact work and skull drill. Coach Calder and most of the squad saw the Kaws run over St. Mary High school by a 26 to 6 score Saturday afternoon at Butte des Morts gymnasium.

The entire Bluejay squad came through the Oshkosh game without any injuries. The game showed that the team needs more drill on blocking for the Bluejay running attack got nowhere against the heavy Oshkosh line. In the last part of the game the Jays ran most of their plays from punt formation because the Oshkosh forwards were breaking through.

The Menasha ends also will come in for some work on catching passes this week. Richard Sheleski, left half of the Jays, tossed accurate passes Friday night but the ends failed to hang onto some which would have meant considerable gains.

Last year Kaukauna won the conference title by scoring a 7 to 0 victory over the Jays. The one touchdown came when the Bluejay defense halted a forward pass directly into the hands of a Kaukauna player.

Miss Anna Gram Is Honored by 68 Girls Of K-C Corporation

Menasha — Miss Anna Gram, 7, Wisconsin avenue, was honored by 68 girls of the office of Kimberly-Clark corporation with a surprise dinner party at Hotel Menasha Monday evening in observance of Miss Gram's thirty-fifth anniversary with Kimberly-Clark. Miss Gram began work with the corporation as a switchboard operator and secretary to F. J. Sensenbrenner when the plant was a much smaller concern than it is today. She later served as secretary to the late Harry Price and was secretary to Charles Sommers. Today she is employed in the office of the treasurer.

A special gift, as well as floral gifts, was presented Miss Gram prior to the bridge party at which honors in bridge were won by Miss Margaret Smith, Miss Ruby Barker, Mrs. Ruth MacIntosh, Mary Jane Lindsey and Agnes Muller. Court wined awards went to Hilda Schalla, Aurelia Hahn, Janet Mitchell and Angelina Walburn. Miss Ruth Backes and Miss Margaret Goller were in charge of arrangements for the party in Miss Gram's honor.

Business Gains Affect Politics At Illinois Polls

Democrats Claim Upswing Has Slowed Down Trend Against Party

(This is another of a series of stories on political conditions in the middle western states.)

BY W. B. RAGSDALE
Springfield, Ill., (P) — A reviving business in Illinois is giving the voters something besides the New Deal to talk about and has set the politicians to thinking about new approaches to the 1940 presidential campaign.

Democrats are arguing that the combination of war in Europe and the upswing in business has slowed down, if not reversed, the trend against them that was evidenced in last fall's congressional elections. Republicans are not yet ready to agree that such is the case, though more than one says privately that it will be harder for them to hold domestic matters to the fore in a wartime campaign.

Illinois, through Chicago's Mayor Kelly, was one of the first states to set up the cry for a third term for President Roosevelt. Governor Horner and Mayor Kelly do not always think alike on other matters, but there is every indication that they do on this one. With these two potent factors in Illinois Democratic pulling the same way, the easiest conclusion to reach would be that the 58 Democratic delegates to the next national convention will be instructed to yell for a third term.

Others Not Boomed
Democratic politicians say that is the sentiment of Illinois Democrats as they view the Kelly and Horner views of Kelly and Horner were named as members of the ways and means committee by Mrs. H. B. Sutton at the Junior Group meeting in First Congregational church Monday evening. Mrs. Fred Krieg was elected to fill the unexpired term of treasurer left vacant when Mrs. W. A. Jacobs moved from the city. The Sunshine committee presented its report. During the social hour, bridge was played with Mrs. Auer, Mrs. Paul Fahrenkrug and Mrs. Johansen winning honors. Tables for the luncheon were decorated with fall leaves and fruits. Mrs. Francis Langlais and Mrs. Louis Schmidt were hostesses.

The Democratic leaders say there has been little evidence of sentiment for either the President Garner or Paul V. McNutt, the security administrator. Nevertheless, some adherents of both are to be found. Garner appeals to many downstate farmers. And McNutt was a neighbor when he was governor of the adjoining state of Indiana. Some desultory talk is heard, too, of instructing the delegation for Senator Lucas as a favorite son, but no drive toward that end has been undertaken.

A double third term effort is emerging in Illinois. In addition to the clamor for a third term for President Roosevelt, some of Governor Horner's adherents are talking about a third term for him in the state capital. They say he has made one of the best governors the state has ever had, that he has given the state a business administration, has balanced its budget, put money into the state treasury and is tremendously popular. Horner, however, has been in poor health for months. Whether his health will permit him to run again remains to be developed.

Battle If Horner Quits
If he is not in the race, the Democrats are likely to have a hot primary contest for the governorship as well as for the seat now held by Senator Slattery and which originally was vacated by the death of J. Hamilton Lewis.

And Illinois Republicans are an idea for a whole presidential ticket. Some of them already are coupling the names of Senator Vandenberg of Michigan and Thomas E. Dewey of New York for top and bottom spots on the ticket. Here as in several other states of the middle west, Vandenberg is being pushed by the older group of Republicans, Dewey by the younger ones. Senator Taft of Ohio also has a following in Illinois, as does Governor Bricker of the same state.

Before the war broke out and complicated things, a careful study of the voting trends in Illinois since 1936 had been worked out by the Republicans for their own guidance. Though the study was finished only a few days ago, its value may have been diminished by the sudden shift of attention away from domestic affairs. No one can measure effect of the war situation.

H's Trend Change?
The Republican says they have positive proof that Illinois was steadily turning from the Democrats up until a week ago. Some of them say they are positive that trend has continued. Others are not quite certain what has happened to it.

In the meantime the prices for farm products are rising, lessening the pliant of the Illinois farmer. Private enterprise in Chicago is reporting large employment gains. Business, particularly in the heavy manufacturing industries, is picking up.

The director of the state department of labor reports a real demand for certain types of workers, such as die, tool and jig makers, gas and arc welders, precision grinders and operators of drill presses, lathes and screw machines. The Pennsylvania railroad has called back 800 car builders repairmen and helpers in this area, 2,500 men all over its lines. Other roads have stopped lay-offs; no may start hiring soon. Builders of industrial structures say business developed since Sept. 15 is 15 per cent above last year's same period. The Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation has called back 1,200 workers. Other plants in the area are stepping up operations. One agency estimated that steel plants and allied industries would soon have 30,000 working in the metropolitan area of Chicago, just 2,000 fewer than the peak period of 1929. Brokers, besieged with orders in a speculative market, are hiring again.

Major Factor
All of this has a tremendous bearing upon the political sensitivities of Illinois, the middle west generally and the nation as a whole. Political wisecracks in the wheat and corn states often say the way those states go in an election depends on

Sub Captain Allows His Victims to Take Bread, Cigarettes

Milwaukee (P) — The captain of a German submarine which torpedoed the British freighter Winkleigh in the Atlantic permitted the steamer's crew to gather up four loaves of bread and several packages of cigarettes before boarding lifeboats, Sherman Vinograd, 18, of Milwaukee related today.

Vinograd, a pre-medical student at the University of Chicago, returned to the United States this week aboard the steamer Statendam, which rescued the crew of the Winkleigh, numbering 37 including a 12-year-old cabin boy, about 250 miles off Southampton, England.

"The captain of the German submarine, Vinograd said, 'had warned the crew that he would sink the vessel. He allowed them four loaves of bread and several packages of cigarettes before they boarded the lifeboats.'"

The Winkleigh was torpedoed Sept. 8. The Statendam made the rescue after the lifeboats had drifted seven hours.

3 Polish Armies Still Resisting Forces of Nazis

motorized Russian army was reported rolling through the Ukraine from the east.

Red forces were said to be moving through the province of Tarnopol, through Zalesky (a temporary seat of the Polish government) and Smiatyn.

Observers believed the Russians also had reached Kolomia and were nearing Kut.

All these towns are in the southeast corner of Poland. Zalesky is approximately 30 miles from the Russian frontier; Smiatyn, 20 miles to the southwest, and Kut, 20 miles further on a direct line. Kolomia is just north and east of Smiatyn.

The Soviet forces apparently planned to occupy the territory along the entire length of the Polish-Rumanian frontier. German troops were reported about 30 miles west of Kut.

Polish refugees streaming across the frontier offered an increasing problem to Rumanian authorities. The Cernatni chief of police estimated at least 100,000 already had crossed.

Casualty Estimates
Polish staff officers and foreign military observers estimated Polish army losses during the 18 days of bitter fighting at 30,000 to 100,000 killed. The same sources estimated German losses at 35,000 to 50,000 killed.

Little was known here concerning fighting around Warsaw, where a radio broadcast last night was broken off suddenly during a talk by Colonel Vlastislav Lipinski.

Polish troops, fighting in the Praga district, a suburb east of the city, were reported to have been bombed and shelled throughout the day, but that the spirit of the populace was unbroken, and that it would resist "to the last man."

Meanwhile, General Lev Prchala, commander of the Czech Legion formed in Poland after Germany's absorption of Czechoslovakia, said the Associated Press 15,000 of his men had been captured by Russians.

Prchala said he had been halted by Russians enroute to the Rumanian border, but was released quickly. He said he would go to France to offer his services there.

Little Chute Scouts At Campfire Meeting

Little Chute — Boy Scout Troop 51 held a campfire at Kaukauna Thursday evening where a campfire meeting was held. A study of the constellations were made, and afterwards a marshmallow roast was enjoyed by members. The scout pace was used in returning and required 13 minutes.

Thursday evening Troop 52 will hike to the same place for a campfire meeting. First aid exhibition will be staged, and the winners receiving a prize. This will include knee, ankle, elbow, shoulder, head and hand injuries. After the meeting, a wiener and marshmallow roast will be held. The return hike will be in patrol formation, using the scout pace.

The price of wheat and corn. That may not be always an entirely true, but it is a factor not to be overlooked: Men have won or lost the election because farm prices were high or low and because business was good or bad.

On the question of candidates, Illinois Republicans, in spite of the talk of Vandenberg and Dewey and Taft and Bricker are still uncommitted to any of the outstanding men in the field. Too many things may still happen before spring for any of them to go out on a limb.

The chief desire appears to be to restore control of the country to men whom business regards as sympathetic. "We've never seen such a boom in this country as we could have if we had a man in the White House who had the active and thorough going cooperation of business," said one.

"Of course, many of the humanitarian objectives of the present administration must be retained, however."

"Our people are bewildered and depressed," said another. "Leadership of a conservative, experienced, fundamental type is needed and this the Republican party is prepared to offer."

"It matters very little by what name the real candidate is called but it matters tremendously that he be sound and sane, experienced, with wise judgment, one who understands the economic and social problems of one who will consider the welfare of the people above political expediency."

The Democrats stand under a third term flag and say little. They are watching the market and estimates go in an election depends on

Mrs. Rufus M. Bagg Will be Hostess to P.E.O. Sisterhood At First Meeting of Season

CHAPTER B of the P.E.O. Sisterhood, organized in Appleton almost 34 years ago, will open its 1939-40 program with a luncheon Oct. 6 at the home of Mrs. Rufus M. Bagg. The program that day will be presented by Mrs. E. F. Mielke, who will review "Holmes and the Breakfast Table," by M. A. de Wolfe. On the luncheon committee will be Mrs. William H. Zuehlke, Mrs. G. E. Buchanan, Mrs. H. C. Humphrey, Mrs. Eva Morse, Mrs. T. B. Wadsworth, Mrs. C. B. Pridg, Mrs. R. E. Carnecross and Miss Ethel Carter.

Circle to Give Card Party and Fashion Show

IT is seldom that an organization sponsoring a card party or event of any sort has to assure its prospective patrons that there will be room enough, but members of the Service Circle of Appleton King's Daughters, whose annual fall card party and style show is always a popular event, have found it necessary to tell prospective buyers of tickets that they will have plenty of room to play in comfort. Last year more than 60 tables of cards were in play, and this year the number is expected to reach 70.

The party is scheduled for 7:30 Tuesday night, Sept. 26, at the Pettibone-Peabody store. The doors will open at 7:15. Pivot bridge will be played, and a prize will be awarded at every table. The store will donate a special prize. An orchestra will accompany the style show, in which several members of the Service circle will act as models. Mrs. Norman Brown and Mrs. William McGinnis are co-chairmen of the event.

Miss Ramona Roehl, 812 W. Summer street, was hostess to 16 active members of Sigma Alpha Iota musical sorority last night at her home in celebration of her birthday anniversary. Games and sorority songs entertained the guests.

A surprise party was given by Miss Helen Tennesen, Sherwood, Sunday evening in honor of Clarence Lunak. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hawley and family, Irvin Tennesen and Miss Lella Miller, Appleton; Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Tennesen and son, Eugene; Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Gerrits, Dundas; Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Gerrits, Mr. and Mrs. John Peters and family, Forest Junction; Edgar Borsche and Miss Eileen Ermer, Hilbert. Miss Helen Tennesen provided music.

An open card party for the benefit of the athletic fund of St. Joseph's school will take place at 2:30 next Sunday afternoon and at 8 o'clock in the evening at the parish hall. Christian Mothers society is sponsoring the party, and young ladies sodality and Holy Name society are assisting in the ticket sale.

Presbyterian Tuxis Club Begins Season

A program of games and informal entertainment helped 15 members of Tuxis club of Memorial Presbyterian church to get acquainted and start off the year's activities Sunday night at the church. Next Sunday a regular discussion will take place with Russell Volkman as leader and Ben Rohan, Jr., in charge of the worship service. Mr. and Mrs. John B. Goodrich are sponsors of the club.

Zion Lutheran Mission society will meet at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the parish school auditorium for a business session. The birthday committee will include Mrs. George Buesing, Mrs. William Lust, Mrs. Otto Reetz, Mrs. Ray Tock, Mrs. Philipp Vogt, Mrs. Charles Balk and Mrs. Arnold Bast.

Missionary group of St. John Evangelical and Reformed church will meet at 7:30 Wednesday night at the home of Mrs. Alfred Wyro, 1402 W. Summer street. Miss Helen Filz will give a report on the summer missionary conference at Mission House college, Plymouth, in August.

RISE AND FALL OF BABYLON II--A Mighty King
In some of the buildings of ancient Babylon, the workers put in bricks or slabs with words cut into them. The words usually had a meaning something like this:
"The temple of the god Enlil, but by Sargon, the great king, ruler of Akkad and Sumer."

Portrait of Hammurabi taken from an ancient slab found in Babylon.

Quite a number of kings had imprints made on bricks before the clay turned hard. There also was a custom of putting words on other pieces of clay. Several kings left small clay "bottles" each from three to eight inches high, and each bearing a number of words. Clay pieces with writing on them have told us hundreds of facts about the lives of the Babylonians and the deeds of their kings. Now and then the writing was cut into stone; an example of this is a stone with the words of the famous laws of King Hammurabi. Here are some of the things the king said about himself:

"When lords of heaven and earth gave the rule of mankind to the god of Marduk, they called on me--Hammurabi. They told me, the great prince, to bring justice to the land and to destroy the wicked. They told me to go forth like the sun, to give light to the black-haired race and to help the people. I was named by Bel, the Sun of Babylon, who ordered the four quarters of the world to obey. I am the favorite of Nana. I gave law and justice to the land. That was a kind of introduction to the laws. After they were written in stone, words with this meaning were added:
"In days which are yet to come, for all future time, let the king who rules this land follow my laws. If he does so, the sun-god Shamash will add to the years of his reign. If he does not, my father, the father of the gods break his scepter and curse his fate."

The king claimed he had been given the laws by the sun-god, and to prove it had his own image and that of Shamash carved into the stone monument. In actual fact, Hammurabi seems to have obtained most of his laws from those already in force in Babylon, putting old laws together in new form. (For History Section of your schoolbook.)

LIKE ALL CHILDREN, PHYLLIS AND DUNCAN ARE VERY IMPRESSIONABLE! NOW, I WANT YOU TO KEEP YOUR HANDS ON THE STEERING-WHEEL OF YOUR IMAGINATION AND DON'T RUN WILD WITH THE STORIES YOU TELL THEM!

TUSH, M'DOVE--I WILL ONLY IMPART TO THESE CRICKETS BITS OF PHILOSOPHY AND WISDOM ON THE CULTURAL SUBJECTS OF ART, MUSIC, SCIENCE AND HISTORY!

BUT, LOOK--SHARKS HAVE BIG MOUTHS--SO HOW COULD YOU SWIM AHEAD OF IT WITHOUT IT BITING OFF YOUR LEGS?

HE SAID, PHYLLIS, HOW HE THREW A LUMP OF ALUM IN THE SHARK'S MOUTH, WHICH SHRUNK IT SMALL!

THE KIDS HAVE ALREADY COME FOR THE JUDGE!

You naturally expect the washer you buy to wash your clothes. CLIP IT IN THE SHORTEST POSSIBLE TIME. That is why you will make no mistake choosing a Speed Queen. Its smooth, round, Box Barrel Tub--with same submerged agitator--and Double Walls to keep water hot--give you a washing combination that no other washer can equal for speed and efficiency. You can buy one of the new 1938 Speed Queens with the definite assurance that it will wash MORE CLOTHES per hour than any other machine. If it doesn't--you don't need to keep it!

FOR HOMES WITHOUT ELECTRICITY The Speed Queen is powered by the famous 4-cycle Briggs & Stratton gas engine

Movieland Its People and Products

Rosemary Lane—is on such good terms with wind, sun and sea, that they no longer afflict her with "sun-burn"—giving her instead the golden tan which is so much desired by the ladies of the day. Here she is with her boat and her best smile ready for a sail. She is currently featured with her two sisters Priscilla and Lola in "Daughters Courageous." The three are to be in its successor "Four Wives."

BY JIMMIE FIDLER
Hollywood—Amazingly, one of Hollywood's most brilliant stars remains a virtual unknown as far as the average theatergoer is concerned. Ask the next movie addict you meet what he knows about Thomas Mitchell—ask yourself, for that matter—and the odds are that he will ponder for a moment and admit the answer is "practically nothing."
Yet Tom Mitchell, a middle-aged, rather handsome actor who came here unheralded and unsung from the stage some three years ago has made himself Film City's most-dreaded picture thief. When he's in a cast, the other actors turn pale. Watching his flawless performances, critics forget a picture's weaknesses and dash for their typewriters to dish out praise. He is, in fact, the best insurance policy any producer can buy at the moment.

He walked away with "Hurricane" and "Stagecoach," playing a drunken doctor in each instance. He was superb as the near-blind aviator in "Only Angels Have Wings." According to best reports, he has stolen the laurels in "Gone with the Wind," "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," and "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington," three of the coming season's biggest films. And done it without benefit of publicity, for, being under contract to no one studio, press departments are not directly interested in bidding up his stock.

The fact that he is soaring so high (his weekly salary now dwarfs that of many a lime-lighted star) and doing it on ability alone, is an encouraging sign. Can it be that Hollywood, after all these years spent worshipping glamour, is at last giving a nod to genuine acting talent?

PERSONAL OBSERVATIONS:
Before impulsively embracing Patricia Ellis, be advised that that lispel decoration she affects is a cactus plant. Far easier to lead the proverbial blind man than to hurry Dick Powell past a shop displaying antique firearms. One look at Sidney Toler's illegible signature and you'll concede he might really be Chinese. Most amusing couple in town: Vic McLaglen and his pet kangaroo. No matter how long a vacation lies ahead, Adolphe Menjou is still in a "terrible hurry." Wonder if Joan Crawford's predilection for the chair in a far corner is a hang-over from some early inferiority complex?

THE HOLLYWOOD PARADE:
Ken Murray, originator of "good ideas," Mr. Murray is particularly proud of his latest labor-saving device—a swimming pool directly under his bedroom balcony, which enables him to dive in without lost motion. . . . Stuart Erwin—Mr. Erwin reports that his cup of happiness is now overflowing—in a scene for his current picture, he was permitted, in five distinct "takes," to hurl a clanging alarm clock through the set window. . . . Groucho Marx, safety-first advocate: With a vacation due, Mr. Marx considered the submarine menace and cancelled (A) a tour of Europe, (B) a trip to South America, (C) a voyage to Honolulu. He and Mrs. Marx are now vacationing at Catalina.

CUFF NOTES: Ian Hunter's eight-year-old son, Joydon, is recovering from a dangerous eye operation. . . . Most worried man in Hollywood is Allan Curtis—at this writing his wife, Priscilla Lawson, is still stranded in Paris with a broken foot. . . . Odes to fame: The town of O'Fallon, Illinois, reports a new street is being named in honor of native son, Bill Holden—whose real name, incidentally, is Bill Beedie. . . . Thanks to that new addition to the family, the Don Ameches are shopping for a larger house. . . .

Student Council Named for School Kimberly High Group to Elect Officers at Early Meeting

Kimberly—Student council members for the ensuing year at the high school were elected last week by the various classes. Nine members are on the council which plans to meet soon to elect officers.

Council members are: Fabian Hietpas and Joseph Van Lieshout, seniors; David Smith, Tom Busch and Betty Wisnams, juniors; Jane Van Lamoan and Kenneth Dietzen, sophomores; and Theresa Van Lieshout and Lilemae Fird, freshmen.
The Kimberly vocational school will sponsor American Red Cross first aid course this fall. L. C. Palmer, circuit instructor for state vocational schools, will be in charge. The course is expected to start soon.
Rally day services will be held at the First Presbyterian church at 10 o'clock Sunday morning, with Mrs. L. C. Smith as chairman of the program.

There will be presentation of a Bible by Mrs. Smith. Recitation of Bible passages will be given by those who will be eligible for promotion.

Those in charge of the Sunday school classes are Mrs. William Anderson, Mrs. I. C. Clark, Mrs. Al Adams and Miss Jane Malcolm.

Holy Name Court of the Women's Catholic Order of Foresters will hold its regular meeting at the clubhouse Thursday evening. After the business session, cards will be played and refreshments will be served.

Hunters Getting Ready for Annual Foray on Ducks, Geese

Duck hunters are beginning to arrange vacations and days off, are polishing up their shotguns and looking for hunting companions in anticipation of the duck season, Oct. 1 to 14.

The season will be open on all species of wild ducks, except wood ducks, and on mud hens, wild geese and brant in Wisconsin. The season on woodcock will be from Oct. 1 to 31 with a bag limit of four and a possession limit of eight.

Ten is the bag limit and 20 the possession limit of all kinds of ducks of which not more than three of any one kind or more than three in the aggregate may be canvasback, redhead, buffhead and ruddy.
The bag limit on mud hens is 25 with a possession limit of 25. The bag limit on geese and brant is four in single or aggregate species and the possession limit is eight in single or aggregate species.

Rails, Wilson's snipe, jacksnipe and gallinules may be hunted during the same season. The bag limit on any of the four is 15 and the possession limit 15 in single or aggregate species.

The use of 50 decoys will be permitted but it is against the law to use live ducks or geese in taking birds. The use of dogs by a person in possession of a gun is prohibited for a period of 10 days before the opening of the season on prairie chickens and grouse.

Hollandtown Group Is Back From West Coast

Hollandtown—Theodore Eiting, Jim Duffy, Frank Vande Wetering and Theodore School have returned from a trip to the exposition in San Francisco, Calif. On their trip they visited Boulder Dam and went through Death Valley. They also traveled through Nebraska, Oregon and other states.

Announcement was made Sunday at St. Francis church, of the coming marriage of Miss Dolores Vander Loop, daughter of Mrs. John Wevers, Kennan, and Law-

Mission Festival to Be Held at Fremont

Fremont—St. Paul's Lutheran church congregation will observe its mission festival Sunday with two services, the Rev. W. C. Schaefer, of Zion's Lutheran church, Caledonia speaking in German at 10:30 in the morning and the Rev. William Reitz, Big Falls, conducting the services at 2:30 in the afternoon in English. A chicken dinner will be served at noon by the women of the congregation.

The Zion's Lutheran church at Caledonia is being remodeled and redecorated. The congregation will attend services at St. Paul's Lutheran church, Fremont, during that time.

Mrs. Mary M. Zuehlke entertained Kappell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kappell, Kaukauna. John Blank, Milwaukee, visited relatives over Sunday. Mrs. Blank and children returned to Milwaukee with him after a week's visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Eiting.

ed the five hundred club Sunday evening at the Dickson lodge. Four tables were in play. Prizes were won by Mrs. Lark Lovejoy, Mrs. Frank Looker, Mrs. Henry Rieckmann, Laverne Lovejoy, Claire Thorne and Frank Looker.
The Women's Improvement club will meet with Mrs. George Dobbin Tuesday evening. Mrs. Dobbin also will entertain the Fremont Benefit club Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Leonard Rowen submitted to a minor operation Saturday at Community hospital, New London. Mrs. L. A. Schoen and daughter, and Mrs. A. C. Carstensen visited Dr. Schoen Saturday at St. Mary's hospital, Wausau.

New London Team To Practice With Appleton Eleven

High School Squad Preparing for Opener Against Clintonville

New London—Practice scrimmage with Appleton High school at 8 o'clock tonight at the city ball park will be the last heavy workout for New London High gridder before the Northeastern Wisconsin conference game at Clintonville Friday evening and individual performances will weigh strongly in determining the starting lineup against the Trunkers. It was announced by Coach Greg Charlesworth yesterday afternoon.

While the Red and White squad is the heaviest (about 160 pounds average) and most promising in years, Coach Charlesworth plainly is worried about Clintonville. De-bunking news stories from Clintonville and considering the better material and long practice the Trunkers have had this year, the New London mentor is taking no chances on losing his first game to the traditionally weak team of the conference.

Fundamentals have been stressed more than ever by Coach Charlesworth and extra time has been spent drilling on fine points and technicalities. Blocking and tackling have improved considerably through work on the dummies and fellow players.

Work on blocking. Offensive blocking has been given much attention. With Charles Clark and Paul Poepeke apparently slated for much of the work. Promising kickers are Harold Poes and Weldon Herres while nearly all the five backfield men, including Bob Houk and Gordon Meiklejohn, will be available for passing.

Each berth on the squad has two or three first line candidates and Coach Charlesworth has been using all in different combinations. One of the most promising newcomers is Dick Demming, younger brother of the former star back, Ned Demming. Trying football for the first time as a junior, he may do valuable work at tackle this year and next.

While many of the boys are suffering from the usual knocks and bruises, the only crippling injury has been received by Anton Herres, first string candidate for end, who probably will be laid up for some time with a bad knee.

The first home game will bring St. Mary's of Menasha to New London for a non-conference battle on Friday night, Sept. 29. The rest of the schedule follows: Oct. 6, Neenah here; Oct. 13, West DePere here; Saturday, Oct. 21, Kaukauna there; Oct. 27, Menasha here; Saturday, Oct. 4, Shawano there.

Rotarians Hear Talk On Home for Children

New London—Operation of a modern home for neglected and dependent children at Winneconne was described before the New London Rotary club at the Elwood hotel Monday noon by Marvin Dubois, superintendent of the home. The home cares for 45 children and is privately operated by individuals to give the youngsters all the advantages of a home without the atmosphere of an orphanage or institution. Much of its food is raised on a 140-acre farm which the home operates.

Plans were made for some members to attend the Rotary state convention at Antigo Wednesday.

New London Families Make Dwelling Changes

New London—Making a change of residence in the city last week were the following: Herman Weber from 501 1/2 Shawano street to 408 Avon street; Arthur Jaeger from 516 E. Cook street next door to 520 E. Cook; John McGowan from 401 Shiocton street to 520 Wallace street; James Wilson from 207 Wisconsin street to 327 Avon street.

Walter Cornwell has moved from 520 to 518 Wallace street. Mr. and Mrs. Glen Marks moved Monday from 309 E. Spring street into the Otto Froelich home at 210 E. Spring street.

Magician Performs At Meeting of Lions

New London—F. C. Roberts New York city, auditor for the Borden Milk Products company, entertained the New London Lions club with sleight of hand tricks at its dinner meeting at the Elwood hotel Monday evening.

The Lions club bowling league was organized at the meeting and the season was opened officially at Pahl's alleys after the dinner.

New London Veteran Is Visited by His World War Colonel

New London—World war memories were renewed by Martin Kusbak of this city Saturday when he was visited by his commander during the last conflict, Colonel A. A. Kuehermeister of Milwaukee. With the colonel were his wife and daughter.

Norman J. Ortlieb left today to attend the state Pharmaceutical convention and Drug show at Milwaukee this week. He will attend three days of the sessions.

Three members of the New London Boat club, Harry Macklin, Ted Thomas and Roy Krahenbuhl, made an excursion up the Wolf river to Shiocton Sunday to attend the bridge dedication homecoming there.

Guests at the E. H. Smith home during the weekend were Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Longberg and daughter Carol Ann of Prentice, Wis. Mr. and Mrs. Gorman Smith, Waupaca; Miss Genevieve Smith and William McCarthy, Green Bay; and Lee Smith, Oshkosh.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. John Muscavitch at their home on Wyman street, Sunday night.

Kenneth Conrad, route 2, Shiocton, underwent an operation at Community hospital Monday.

Galilean to Give Talk on Palestine

Stephen Haboush Booked For Several New London Programs

New London—Stephen A. Haboush, native Galilean lecturer, will make a number of appearances in New London next week preceding his social travel program which will be held at the Washington High school auditorium at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening, Sept. 26, under the auspices of the New London High school band.

The speaker addressed the high school student body at 11 o'clock this morning at a special assembly in the auditorium and will be guest speaker before a joint meeting of the New London Lions and Rotary clubs at the Elwood hotel next week.

Mr. Haboush, a twentieth century Galilean shepherd who has become recognized as an authority on Palestine and the Holy lands, will present a free lecture at the high school at 8 o'clock Sunday evening, Sept. 24. His subject will be "Under Galilean Skies."

Tickets are on sale by members of the band for the special travel program on Tuesday evening. Assisted by Madame Haboush and party, the Galilean will present a musical travel of natural color motion pictures and selected still scenes in natural color. All accompanied with synchronized music. As a youth Haboush roamed the Holy lands as a shepherd and after a partial education in Europe came to America where he was soon sought after to speak of the life and customs of Palestine. Since that time he has returned to the Holy lands many times for the express purpose of gathering knowledge, pictures, curios and relics of his people to present a clearer picture to outsiders.

Photographer Awarded Blue Ribbon at Parley

New London—Last week for the third successive year, Mrs. R. W. Hanson, New London photographer, received a blue ribbon award for pictures hung at the state photographers' convention. Last week two of her portraits were hung at Madison and received recognition. Several of her pictures were decorated at Milwaukee and Green Bay the previous years.

CRANBERRY SEASON GETS UNDERWAY

With summer drawing to a close, the cranberry season is just getting underway and one of the pickers, Elizabeth Luft, Ogdensburg, is shown above at a marsh on route 5, Waupaca, which was opened Sunday by the owner, Edmund S. Bailey. Between 200 and 300 pickers began work in the marsh.

Each picker averages about 1 bushel a day and the yield per acre is about 40 barrels. Plants begin to bear after three years and produce for 80 years in some localities. The plants are protected from frost by flooding each year.

Firemen are Entertained by Fire Department Auxiliary

New London—The Firemen's auxiliary entertained the New London Fire department at a 6:30 dinner at the fire house Monday night in honor of the success of the recent Labor day homecoming celebration sponsored by the groups. Mrs. William Dent acted as toastmistress and talks were given by Chief Dan Rex and other members of the department. Motion pictures of the public picnic staged by the Northeastern Wisconsin Firemen's association at Weyauwega this summer were shown by Gerald Dent of the department. Games entertained afterward.

Seven tables of cards were in play at the Charles Pasch home Sunday evening as members of the Lutheran Social club entertained their husbands at a chicken dinner. Men's prizes were won by Charles Pasch, Theodore Krenke and Julius Fuerst, ladies by Mrs. Adolph Gehrke, Mrs. Amelia Hoffman and Mrs. Will Liskow. Mrs. Pasch will be hostess for the regular club meeting Sept. 26.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Peters at a 6 o'clock dinner at their home Sunday evening were Mr. and Mrs. John Bohl of Appleton, Roy Spearbraker of Clintonville and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Struck of New London.

Jack Seering, Alice Stanley and Gene Wyman were named a nominating committee by the Congressional Young People's society Sunday evening to present a slate of officers for election on Oct. 1. The group will hold a short meeting next Sunday evening and then will attend in a body the free program by Stephen A. Haboush, Galilean lecturer, at Washington High school auditorium. It also was planned to send a delegate to the young people's state convention at Kenosha on Oct. 1.

Circle 3 of the Ladies Aid society of the Congregational church will meet at 2:30 Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. H. B. Cristy. Mrs. M. C. Trayser will be assisting hostess.

The public card party of the Veterans of Foreign Wars auxiliary planned for Sept. 29 has been advanced one day to Thursday, Sept. 28, because of the St. Mary's-New London High school football game here Friday night.

3 Leagues Begin Bowling Season On Pahl Alleys

Goodfellowship, Lions, Inter-County Circuits in Action

New London—Three more leagues swung into action on Pahl's alleys last night and a new one, a Tavern league, is in the process of formation and will roll tentatively tonight.

Dr. George Polzin of the Lion's Twisters hit top series of 521 last night and broke a 200 game. Harold Streb of Perk's Taverns, Medina, in the Inter-County league hit high game of 209 with a 517 total. Keith Pahl, substituting for Clarence Hocker on the Cedar Lawn five of the Goodfellowship league, was the only other kegger to clip 200 in the opening matches. Erv Buelow rolled 187 and 503 and L. Dent hit 500.

The Cedar Lawn squad took all team marks with a 2,281 total and 827 game. The Twisters led the Lions club with counts of 765 and 2,203.

The team rosters were as follows: Goodfellowship League: Reetz Shoes, Jerome Zaig, Ed Stern, Jr. Ralph Mortenson, Buelow, Leo Reetz, Ford Tractors, Lowell Dent, John Sofia, Lester Werner, Ralph Impelman, Harold Shurland, Mike's Taverns, Lawrence Magalska, A. Ebert, Fritz Buelow, Orin Krohn, Melvin Westphal; Cedar Lawn Dairy, Clarence Hocker, Earl McPeak, W. McPeak, W. Bachman, K. Black.

Lions Club League: Twisters, Dr. J. W. Monsted, H. A. Gresenz, Frank Meyers, Dr. H. C. Schmallenberg, Dr. George Polzin, Growlers, Herman Platte, Sr. Ralph Hanson, G. H. Salters, Harry Allen, Len Cline, Roarers, C. H. Kelllogg, Lewis Savall, H. H. Helms, W. M. Knapstein, R. V. Pahl; Tamers, G. A. Wells, Leo Blaschka, F. C. Mitelesladi, Rudd Smith, Dave Vanderveer.

Inter-County League: Byrons Lunch, Hortonville, Byron Baurain, Wyman Schimke, Mike Magadan, Arnold Borchardt, Tuffy Buchanan, Peter Olk; Hodgins Quarry, Hortonville, Kenneth Hodgins, Dick Schimke, Al Dobberstein, Ted Gartzke, Marvin Fuder, Larry Mathyes; Perk's Tavern, Medina, Louis Schusser, Gordon Schusser, Nels Perkins, Harold Streb, Chet Wilson. A fourth team is to be enlisted.

"We shouldn't," Olivia agreed. "We've had a very pleasant evening, up to a point, and I suggest that we forget it. It's all quite impossible. Things like that just don't happen in Vickersport. Any one feels like a little bridge when we get home?"

Tony said softly for Cecily to hear, "I'm glad I didn't give way to my impulse to explore the ladies' dressing room before dinner. I'd be sure to be accused. Would you say I had any of the earmarks of a Raffles?"

"All of them," Cecily retorted obligingly, "even to getting suspicion away from yourself. Didn't you announce before we left that you had missed a sapphire bracelet? That's supposed to be part of the plan."

Tony brought her full glance to bear on Cecily. "So, it is," she said slowly. "So it is. Things like that don't happen in Vickersport! Maybe we'd better look into it when we get back."

When the girls returned to the drawing-room, they found the others gathered there. Mrs. Brewster, looking older than Time—wary, but with a manner that assured them no one would be made uncomfortable, was already bidding them good night.

"Well," Helen Fernandez said when the women were in Olivia's car, "our hostess certainly handled that to the queen's taste. It looked rather unpleasant for a few minutes. Lady Rathbone was so determined to make it unpleasant!"

Olivia said thoughtfully, "It all seems rather strange. Lady Rathbone was certain that she had left her pin in her jewel case. She told me it was a family heirloom, in addition to being worth a considerable sum. I don't believe that she would be so ungracious, or so unbalanced in her point of view, to state the case wrongfully."

"On the other hand, Olivia," Helen said reasonably, "Mrs. Brewster was quite equally certain she had her pin in her jewel case. She knew her servants. And she had every right to believe that Lady Rathbone was mistaken. Why should we all be disturbed about it?"

"We shouldn't," Olivia agreed. "We've had a very pleasant evening, up to a point, and I suggest that we forget it. It's all quite impossible. Things like that just don't happen in Vickersport. Any one feels like a little bridge when we get home?"

Tony said softly for Cecily to hear, "I'm glad I didn't give way to my impulse to explore the ladies' dressing room before dinner. I'd be sure to be accused. Would you say I had any of the earmarks of a Raffles?"

When Cecily came downstairs, Gloria was saying, "Let's have a little gawdy to get the cold out of our bones. Could we have highballs, Mother?"

Olivia nodded to Philip who went to the dining-room and returned with a tray of bottles and glasses. "Tony came running downstairs. 'I found my bracelet,' she announced. 'It was lying right on my bed. I can't imagine how I could have been so careless as to leave it there! I'm rather fond of it. It's an expensive trifle.'"

"I told you you'd find it," Philip said, bringing her a glass. Cecily shuffled the cards. "Now everything is all right," she said. "Shall we cut for partners?"

Nothing Wrong—

Cecily opened her eyes, stretched, curling her toes like a cat, extending her arms in a rigid movement. Then she lay relaxed. Her eyes felt clear, refreshed, as though the early morning sunshine, warm with crisp edges, were a celestial bath.

Out of doors, she heard the proud cackle of a hen, the tinkle of cowbells in the meadow beyond the pines. The cry of seagulls rose on the clear air. The sweet smell of hay mingled with the lavender scent of her bed-sheets.

"Nice! Nice! Nice!" she said, as though she were biting into the word with pleasure.

She turned her head to look at the clock on her bedside table. It was only seven.

For a few moments she thought of the night before, of Lady Rathbone's cold, angry face. Then she dismissed it. Surely, in the clear beauty of this new day, that would be righted. There was nothing wrong—could be nothing wrong on a day like this—that the day would not clear up.

She let her thoughts swing in the inevitable circle back to yesterday.

It was no good trying to stay in bed any longer. Cecily hopped out, grasped the foot-rail of her bed, bent, twisted her body in exercises

New Students to be Welcomed at Meeting

The Girl Reserves at Appleton High school will sponsor a welcome and get-acquainted gathering for new students Tuesday, Sept. 26, in the Early American room, it was announced today.

Students who transferred to Appleton from other schools will be guests at the meeting. Welcoming talks and explanations of extra-curricular activities are planned. Genevieve Schaefer, president of the Girl Reserves, will preside.

New London—Henry Hoffmann, 303 Shiocton street, suffered a fractured bone in his foot when a heavy iron bar fell on it Saturday night at the Plywood plant where he is employed as fireman. The injury was treated at a physician's office.

like a dancer limbering up. Then she plunged her arms into the cold water she had poured into the washbowl and splashed it on her face. She dried it hastily, rubbing her skin until it glowed.

Hunger hastened her as she dressed. I would have made a good pioneer wife, she thought. I like to get up early in the morning. I love the out of doors. I'd get meals on time just because I'm always hungry.

Mrs. Batson was not in the kitchen. Wouldn't be for an hour. Into a small tin pail Cecily poured a glass of thick cream from the crock where it had been left at dawn. Then she went out to the barn and foraged in the hay. She found a half-dozen eggs, still warm, and put them in a paper bag.

With her booty, she struck out the back way toward the beach. In long strides she covered the smooth stones, scrambled up a cliff and struck off through a short-cut toward Cramer's Road.

She was going to give a surprise party to Laura.
